$30,000 WATER TANK LABELED AS VALUELESS

Fails to Boost Pressure, Say Montgomery Hills Residents.

HOMEOWNERS CLAIM TROUBLE IS ANNUAL

1,000,000-Gallon Standpipe Merely Landscape Blot, Is Complaint.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of stories dealing with the territory furnished water by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. Tomorrow's article will deal with the situation in the western part of Montgomery County and that portion of Prince Georges County served by the commission. The series will appear daily in The Washington Post exclusively.

There is a large standpipe, capable of holding 1,000,000 gallons of water, which scars the vista of suburban homes near Montgomery Hills. This was erected by the Washington-Suburban Sanitary Commission at a cost of approximately $30,000.

The residents of that vicinity say its unsightliness could be endured and its cost easily borne if it accomplished the purpose for which it was erected—to store water and to maintain sufficient pressure—and this, they emphatically say, it has failed utterly to do.

If one stops at any of the residences within a radius of one mile of the standpipe, and talks water pressure, the home owner looks surprised as if he had never heard of water pressure in that area.

Was to Boost Pressure.

"Pressure?" they ask, in something of amazement.

Then the interrogator is led to a faucet. The spigot is turned on and a trickle of water flows. It is not incomprehensible why the people consider a fast-flowing faucet as something of a novelty.

While the Montgomery Hills subdivision was being erected the lot owners saw this cylindrical tank being riveted together on the slight promontory near their home sites.

"What is it for?" they asked the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

"That is to store the water during times of plenty, so that it will be available in time of drought. It also will insure sufficient pressure so that there will be a heavy flow of water in all of the buildings in the area."

Short of Purpose.

That was fine, so far as the owners were concerned. There's nothing so convenient as plenty of fast-flowing water. The tank was erected in the spring of 1929. Since then, the area contiguous to it has had a mushroom growth. Homes have sprung up on all sides.

Only on rare occasion, during the winter months, have they enjoyed anything that approximates the normal pressure required for their homes. Beginning in July of each year, and continuing through the summer months, the pressure is unendurable, they say.

A fair flow can be obtained in the lower floors of their homes; but two spigots can not be operated at one time. If a person wishes to sprinkle a lawn, every water outlet in the house must be closed until the operation is over. Even then, the sprinkling is a long and painstaking task.

Overflow Is Rare.

Only a weak stream issues from the garden hose. The force will not carry the water more than 4 feet

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Four persons were killed and eight seriously injured tonight when two automobiles collided head-on on the New York Post road, near here.

Three of the dead were women. One was identified as Mrs. Yetta Cumiskey, of New York City. Identity of the other two could not immediately be established. Mathew Singer, also of New York City, driver of one of the cars, died soon after in a hospital.

Those injured were said to be Mrs Durn, her 9-year-old daughter, Mary Margaret; Miss Kathaline Kenny, Thomas Kenny, Miss Cecila McCorty, 18; Philip Hayden, 24, and two persons unidentified.

According to witnesses the automobile Singer was driving tatempted to pass another car when it crashed head-on into an eight-passenger machine said to have been driven by Hayden.

Probe Made in Death Of Child by Lockjaw

Acting Coroner Orders Police Investigation to Determine Cause of Tetanus That Followed Vaccination for Smallpox.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald has ordered the homicide squad to investigate the death of William G. Sheckels, 5 years old, 540 Newton place northwest, who died in Children's Hospital Saturday night of lockjaw, which resulted, Dr. MacDonald says, from infection of a smallpox vaccination.

Dr. MacDonald has ordered an analysis of the vaccine used by the attending physician to determine whether the tetanus infection resulted from inferior serum or was the result of accidental infection of the wound, while the child was at play.

The acting coroner has withheld issuance of a certificate of death, until the investigation, being conducted by Detective Sergt. Dennis J. Murphy is completed. Detective Sergt. Murphy has obtained tubes of the serum from the drug store at which the child's father purchased the serum used on his child by a private physician.

Dr. MacDonald said if the vaccine proves to be of an inferior quality, he will order an inquest into the death. If, however, the serum passes the required tests, it will be almost conclusive, he said, that the infection was caused by an agency other than the serum.

The child's father, W. H. Sheckels, a florist, decided to have the child immunized against colds by injection of a serum, he said. However, Dr. MacDonald said it was his impression that the vaccine was anti-smallpox.

The boy was to start in the kindergarten of the Park View School when classes were opened this fall.

On August 11 the father went to a drug store and purchased the vaccine, he said. He took his son to a private physician and asked that the treatment be given.

Last Monday the child was taken ill and a physician who attended him, the father said, diagnosed his illness as after-effects of the vaccine treatment. The child's condition became worse and three days later his con-

3 VICTIMS OF BRIDGE CRASH ARE RESCUED

10 or 15 Believed Dead in Rio Grande Flood; More Flee Their Homes.

Laredo, Tex., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The raging Rio Grande carried its threat to life and property south of here today after causing possibly ten or fifteen deaths, and enormous damage.

As the river receded at Laredo, where fifteen or twenty persons were plunged into the flood in the collapse of part of the Missouri Pacific Railroad bridge, the crest moved slowly down stream.

Meanwhile, the U. S. Weather Bureau issued flood warnings for the territory near the river between Laredo and Brownsville, and residents began fleeing to higher ground.

Three Mexican customs and immigration inspectors, who went down with the bridge and clung to driftwood sixteen hours, were rescued from a raft and taken to Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican city opposite Laredo. Officials believed the others perished.

Early reports that many persons were drowned in Nuevo Laredo were denied after water covering the international footbridge had receded enough to permit precarious passage over great mounds of drift.

Mexican authorities said a house near the river bank, in which a woman and six children were seen before the flood, had disappeared down stream, but they did not know whether the occupants escaped. No known loss of life in Nuevo Laredo was reported.

The property damage in the Mexican city, however, was large. Foun-

Man Rides Lake Storm In Small Boat 24 Hours

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Riding out a storm that lashed Lake Erie from Saturday night until today, E. E. Nordblum, Silver Creek fisherman, put in at Sturgeon Point tonight exhausted, but was able to leave for his home in a few hours. He had been afloat for 24 hours in a skiff equipped with a small motor and a pair of oars.

Seven other fishing boats succeeded in getting into Silver Creek ahead of the gale.

195,000 War Vets Stage Huge Parade; France Fears Militarism.

Berlin, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—One hundred and ninety-five thousand members of the Nationalist Steel Helmet, acting for 1,000,000 more German World War veterans, today aligned themselves behind the government of Chancellor Franz von Papen in the most brilliant military display since the days of Kaiser Wilhelm.

In a gigantic parade at Tempelhof Airdrome, they marched with soldierly bearing and implicit obedience to commands.

From 5:30 to 10:30 in the morning, seemingly endless columns of steel helmeters moved from every direction upon Tempelhof to hear Frans Seldte plead for patriotism, unity and love of their fellow men, and to see Theodore Duesterberg dedicate hundreds of new flags to units just formed. Seldte and Duesterberg are coleaders of the organization.

For six hours after these ceremonies the airdrome resounded to the tramp of marching feet as battalion after battalion passed in review before Chancellor von Papen, Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher, Interior Minister Wilhelm von Gayl and other cabinet members in the uniforms of Reichswehr generals.

It was a striking pageant of imperial flags, snappy salutes and stirring military music, drab field gray uniforms contrasting with the brilliant dress of veteran generals, among whom the aged field marshal, August von Mackensen, in a black Hussar garb, was the most conspicuous.

Lusty cheers of "front heil" from hundreds of thousands of veterans' and spectators' throats greeted the chancellor as he appeared with his staff, and similar honors were accorded Gen. von Mackensen. Both stopped

Three Die as Boat Sinks; Woman on Yacht Drowns

Mrs. Marie Ort, Midland, Md., Falls Overboard on Potomac Cruise.

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Sept. 4.—Plunging into the rough waters of the Potomac River from the deck of a small yacht anchored near Riverside, Md., early today, Mrs. Marie Roland Ort, wife of Frank C. Ort, cashier of the First National Bank of Midland, Md., was drowned before other members of a gay yachting party could summon aid.

Mrs. Ort fell backward from the deck of the craft as it lay at anchor riding out a heavy wind. The accident was witnessed by only two members of a party of seven aboard the boat, which left Alexandria, Va., yesterday en route to Colonial Beach.

Near Mrs. Ort, when she fell into the water, were Aubrey Lynch and

GREAT PARADE IS LABOR DAY'S FEATURE HERE

Firemen From Far and Near to Participate in Pageant.

200 FLOATS WILL VIE FOR PRIZE AWARDS

Full Program of Sporting Events Is Also Provided for Capital.

A nationally important pageant which had its inception years ago merely to advertise a minor baseball game will be reenacted again today for the thousands who have been looking forward to the event for weeks.

All the color, beauty and funmaking will be with Washington again this year as the "visiting firemen" take over the town, together with dozens of added innovations. The central motif of the now famous firemen's Labor Day parade will be colonial in recognition of the George Washington Bicentennial.

Part of Washington's Labor Day crowd began arriving yesterday. The flag-lined streets had already started filling with the bright uniforms of firemen from Delaware, Pennsylvania and other far points. Special trains were placed on most of the railroads to accommodate the growing influx of visitors.

Parade Starts at 10:30.

The parade, of course, will be the central event of interest in the Capital's celebration of Labor Day. It will start at 10:30 o'clock, and its sponsors figure it will require two hours for all of the units to pass the reviewing stand.

But there are many other events on the city's schedule of activities outside of these two hours. For the baseball fan, there is a double-header at Griffith Stadium between Washington and Boston.

Incidentally, the regular American League schedule this year led to the postponement of the annual game between the Washington Police and Fire Departments until Saturday. It was to advertise this diamond affray that the now monster parade was originally started.

Golf tournaments have been planned at all of the leading clubs, and there

Rain Helps Control Fire Fought by Companies of Three States.

Elkton, Md., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Fire tonight threatened this northeastern Maryland community but rain, according to fire department officials, prevented flying embers, scattered by a brisk wind, from spreading throughout the town.

The fire was discovered in a lumber storage building of the Elkton Supply Co. by an employe. It quickly spread to two other buildings and a nearby residence which were destroyed. Several other stores and residences were slightly damaged.

The loss, according to an official of the supply company, was estimated between $75,000 and $100,000. The origin of the fire was not determined.

The wind blew sparks from the flaming buildings over most of the

CHICAGO YEGGS TAKE $250,000, IMPRISONING 10

Supergang of Cracksmen Cuts Through Floor to Reach Vault.

DEPOSIT BOXES' LOOT MAY REACH $1,000,000

Robbers Receive Meals and Amuse Children During 14-Hour Haul.

Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Sawing their way through a floor into the offices of Koch & Co., a gang of at least eight cracksmen escaped today with loot estimated by police between $250,000 and $1,000,000.

The gang kept ten persons, including two children, prisoner in the building fourteen hours while they smashed safety deposit boxes rented to patrons of the firm.

Police said the robbery was the largest in Chicago since the $1,250,000 robbery of the Werner Bros. warehouse in 1923, and that evidently it was engineered by a supergang of safeblowers.

The gang cut through the floor of an upstair flat and used acetylene torches and electric drills to penetrate at least 15 inches of steel to get into the vaults of the company, an old-established real estate and safety lock box firm. All the safeblowers wore gloves to eliminate fingerprints and all but two of the crowd were masked.

Family Is Corralled.

Posing as Government looking for "Dr. Spencer Brown, an escaped convict from Leavenworth" two of the men confronted George Laschetake, a street car conductor, yesterday afternoon as he returned to his flat in the building. They conducted him up the rear stairs to the place where his wife, Mary, and her mother, Mrs. Anna Doody, were. Inside, the men drew revolvers and herded the women into a bedroom. One of the robbers then went downstairs and called to four or five men in a parked automobile. The men carried in three large boxes filled with tools.

As other occupants of flats above the office entered the building they were held prisoner. The others held were Robert Kruse, a nephew of Laschetake; Mrs. Gussie Kruse; his sisters, Mrs. Grace Laukhlin and Mrs. Lee Edmiston and her husband, and Mrs. Laughlin's children, Adeline, 13, and Mary Sue, 1.

Bandits Amuse Children.

Laschetake said at least six men besides the two detailed as guards were seen during the robbery.

The men cut a hole about 3 feet square in the floor and lowered themselves to the top of the vault. They then used torches to cut through the steel vault.

From a list of the safety deposit boxes contained in the office, police said, the men determined the boxes containing valuables and knocked them open with hammers.

The guards upstairs permitted the women to prepare food for the prisoners and laughed and played with the children.

When the cracksmen completed their work about 4 a. m. today, they carefully packed their tools and loot and disappeared.

A complete check of the missing valuables can not be made, police said, until the return of Frank Koch, president of the company. He was at Green Bay, Wis., over the week-end.

LINDBERGH SUSPECT CHARGES KIDNAPING

Many Investigators Study Story He Was Held for 76 Days by Sleuth.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Federal, State and county investigators tonight are pondering the lengthy story of Garret Schenck, 46, Hopewell, N. J., fish peddler, who says he was held captive by a private detective for 76 days following the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Found yesterday in a mountain cabin, just across the Somerset County line, Schenck was brought to Johnstown's city hall, and questioned until almost dawn. He said he never had seen the Lindbergh baby, but added with a broad grin that he "had met" Col. Lindbergh and his wife.

"That was when they were laying the foundation for their place in Hopewell—they never bought any fish from me," he explained.

Pudgy and affable, Schenck sat at a long table, and talked for hours last night with special agents of the United States Bureau of Investigation and officials of Cambria and Clearfield County. Later he was removed to Clearfield by Sheriff Ira McCloskey, of that county. McCloskey said he intends to "lay this case before the district attorney."

Until he was found, Schenck said, he was kept under close guard.

"I wasn't allowed to read the newspapers and I wasn't permitted to write to my folks. They wouldn't let me get a haircut.

"They treated me all right, and I had plenty to eat, but I kept wondering what they would do with me.

"In Somerset County I heard them talking about the bonus army and Mayor McCloskey and I figured if I could get to him I would be set free. Well, I got word to him, and this is the first time I have been treated white since."

Tropical Gale Reported Nearing Bahama Islands

Tropical disturbance central about 175 miles east southeast of Nassau, Bahamas, moving west northwestward 7 miles per hour, attended by shifting gales and winds hurricane force near center, which will pass Nassau Monday afternoon."

Miami, Fla., Sept. 3 (U.P.).—Beautiful sunshiny weather today gave no indication that another tropical disturbance was approaching Miami but citizens, mindful of previous experiences, spent Sunday in boarding up windows as R. W. Gray, weather observer, told them not to expect high winds before late Monday or early Tuesday.

New President of Mexico Takes Oath as Ortiz Rubio Leaves for Rest; Latter Ascribes Resignation to Political Factors Rather Than Illness.

Mexico City, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, a tall, vigorous soldier and businessman, became president of the republic today, succeeding Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who departed for the United States immediately after Congress accepted his resignation.

The new president, who is a close friend of the powerful Gen. P. Elias Calles, wore formal morning dress, with the bright sash of the chief executive across his chest, when he took the oath in a brief ceremony before the Congress which appointed him.

At the same hour, Ortiz Rubio and his family, accompanied by a strong military guard of honor, boarded the presidential train at Buena Vista, where a crowd of friends shouted farewell.

Prior to his departure, Ortiz Rubio disclosed that his resignation had been due to political affairs rather than illness, which was of secondary importance. Rodriguez, after his inauguration announced that he would devote himself with determination and energy to creation of confidence, which would aid the nation toward economic recovery.

"My policy toward the United States will consist of continuing the relations of friendship which have existed," Rodriguez declared. He went immediately to the national

3 U. S. ENVOYS ABDUCTED IN PERSIA SAVED

Rescued From Brigands by Troops; Seized as Hostages.

G. U. GRADUATE ONE OF AMERICANS TAKEN

Two Postal Vans Looted and Mail Burned in Raid; Unrest Blamed.

(Associated Press.)

Capture of three American consular officers by brigands in Persia and their subsequent rescue by Persian troops was reported to the State Department yesterday.

Charles C. Hart, American Minister at Teheran, cabled that the Americans were captured in a mountain pass between Kermanshah and Hamadan, Persia, the night of September 1. He reported further that they "appear to have been rescued late today by Imperial Persian troops, according to information reaching the legation."

The three were Robert B. Streeper, of Columbus, Ohio, consul and third secretary of legation at Teheran; Cyril L. F. Thiel, of Chicago, consul at Jerusalem, and Thomas A. Hickok, of Rochester, Pa., vice consul at Jerusalem.

Wanted As Hostages.

Hussein Agha Hatemi, a native employe of the American Legation at Teheran, also was captured.

Minister Hart said he was informed the brigands intended to hold the Americans as hostages for the release of several members of the Lur Tribe who are imprisoned in Teheran by the Persian government.

The capture was reported to have taken place at Bitsorkh pass, on the main Bagdad-Teheran road, the security of which has been guaranteed by the Persian government for years. This motor route from Bagdad to Teheran is now used largely by foreigners entering Teheran as it is much shorter than the approach from Russia over the Caspian Sea or from Turkey over the Black and Caspian Seas.

Postal Vans Looted.

The Americans were on their way from Bagdad to Teheran when they were captured. Seven motor cars and two postal vans were reported looted and mail burned.

Reports also reached the American Legation in Teheran that there is serious unrest among the Lurs, a powerful Nomadic tribe of Western Persia.

Mrs. Streeper, a native of Elwood, Ind., was a guest at the Teheran le-

Flying Family Arranges for Depots Said to Have Been for Colonel.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 4 (U. P.).—Col. George Hutchinson, chief pilot for the flying Hutchinson family which is en route from America to England, was understood tonight to have secured through the Danish Standard Oil Co. the fuel depots which were said to have been placed along the route for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife flew to the Far East last year, but did not announce that they planned to fly on around the world. Their trip was interrupted in China.

The depots are at Godthaab, Greenland, where the Hutchinson plane was last reported, and at Angmagssalik. The Greenland government's consent to use the depots was required.

PRICE ADVANCE IS DUE TO SPUR FOREIGN TRADE

Exports in Many Lines Have Shown Increase This Year.

HIGHER VALUATION WOULD AID BALANCE

Commerce Report Reveals Criticism of Tariff as Unjustified.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Rise in commodity prices, hailed as helpful to domestic business, promises an increased foreign trade as well, analysis of foreign trade statistics compiled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce shows.

In the first six months of this year, the United States exported larger quantities of cotton, wheat, crude petroleum and other commodities than in the same periods in years before the world-wide business slump.

Despite this increased exportation of various commodities, the total of the Nation's exports, expressed in dollars, has fallen far below the value of exports in 1928, which may be considered for comparative purposes, because it was before the bottom dropped out of prices.

How drastic has been the price decline, and its effect on American exports when these are translated into dollars, is indicated by a comparison of the exports of cotton in the first six months of 1928, 1929 and 1932. In the 1928 period the United States exported 1,842,000,000 pounds; in 1929, the amount was 1,632,000,000 pounds. In the first six months of this year the total jumped to 2,268,000,000 pounds.

Decrease in Value.

In sharp contrast to this increase in volume has been the decrease in total value. The 1928 value was $371,600,000; in 1929 it was $319,800,000; but it was only $161,600,000 in the first six months of the current year. Computations show that at the average 1928 unit value, the value of cotton exports in the first half of the current year would have been $458,000,000, instead of the $161,600,000 actually received.

Study of foreign trade statistics fails to justify free trade criticism of the Smoot-Hawley tariff law as the murderer of American foreign trade. Economists engaged in close and constant study of foreign trade trends and day-by-day developments are convinced the Smoot-Hawley tariff law had little to do with the slump in American exports. The effect the law might have had on American foreign trade is problematical. Before it could have had any material effect, the decline in prices became the dominant factor, and has continued to be a major factor.

American exportation of wheat affords another graphic example of the effect of the drop in price levels. In the first half of 1928 the United States exported 24,000,000 bushels of wheat. In the same period in 1929 exports amounted to 30,000,000 bushels. In the first half of 1932 exports totaled 37,000,000 bushels. When the bushels are translated into dollars, however, a different story is told. The 1928 period value was $33,400,000, the 1929 period value was $34,500,000, but the 1932 period value dropped to $22,700,000, despite the large increase in the amount exported.

Petroleum Exports.

A similar story is told by crude petroleum. Exports in the 1928 period amounted to 9,000,000 barrels, increased to 12,000,000 barrels in 1929 and to 14,000,000 barrels in 1932. The value of these exports was: 1928, $11,900,000; 1929, $15,400,000; 1932, $13,700,000. This meant a decrease from approximately $1.32 per barrel in 1928 to less than 97 cents a barrel in the first half of 1932. Exported wheat dropped from an average of $1.39 a bushel in the first half of 1928 to 61 cents a bushel in the first half of this year.

These examples do not give a complete picture of American foreign trade, by any means. They are cited as graphic illustrations of the effect of price declines on the dollar totals of our export trade. They do show how fallacious loose comparisons, made to support an unjustified contention, may be.

Most commodities exported by the United States do not show an increase in volume in the face of falling prices, and this is especially so in manufactured articles. Accurate comparison of the volume of these articles exported is different because of their variety. Measured in dollars, exports of this class of commodities have decreased sharply.

Drop in Volume.

Automobiles, parts and accessories, for example, increased from $248,700,000 in the first half of 1928 to $339,000,000 in the same period in 1929, but nose-dived to $45,700,000 in the first six months of the year. Exports of industrial machinery in the 1928 period were valued at $111,600,000; $133,300,000 in the 1929 period, but dropped to $31,900,000 in the first six months of this year. A good part of these declines can be attributed to lower prices, but there has been a heavy decrease in the volume.

American export trade has not suffered alone from the decline in prices. The decline might have been forecast by a study of the decline in the price of imports.

In each quarter of 1929 import prices showed a decrease as compared with the same quarter the year before. That decline in price, however, was not shown in volume of imports until the last quarter of the year. The first quarter saw an increase of 15 per cent in volume as compared with a 9 per cent decrease in price; the second an increase of 22 per cent in volume and a 6 per cent decrease in price; the third an 18 per cent increase in volume and an 8 per cent decline in price; the fourth quarter an increase of only 6 per cent in volume of imports and a 5 per cent decrease in price.

The first quarter of 1930 showed a decrease of 9 per cent in volume and 12 per cent in price of imports as compared with the same quarter of 1929. How great an effect the Smoot-Hawley tariff law had on the U. S. foreign trade may be indicated by the fact that despite the fact its enactment was imminent the volume of imports continued to decline in the second quarter of 1930.

Each quarter since has seen a decrease in the volume of imports but it also has seen a greater decrease in the volume of exports.

Signs Grow That Walker Is Through With Politics

Former Mayor Indicates Health Is His Greatest Concern; Tammany Chiefs in Doubt About Wisdom of Running Him Again.

New York, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Belief that James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, is definitely through with politics and that he will not be a candidate for the mayoralty again became increasingly strong over a week-end replete with sensational political developments.

The chief results of two days of conferences among high officials of Tammany and the State party were these:

1. Mayor Walker himself indicated that he needed first of all to regain his health before thinking of a reentry into politics.

2. Tammany's leaders, including John F. Curry and John H. McCooey, were debating the question of running Walker as the tiger's candidate for mayor, in the face of revolt from minor party leaders.

3. William Randolph Hearst, strong backer of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and credited with having assisted the New York governor to win the Democratic presidential nomination, turned his back on Walker, despite the fact that he had previously urged the mayor to resign "and take his case to the people."

Complications in the New York State Democratic quarrel, involving five factions of the party, were increased by the declaration of Hearst that as between the Walker-Tammany faction and the Roosevelt forces, he was supporting the New York governor.

Tammany leaders, debating whether to abandon the colorful personality who has dominated New York politics for six years, or to support him in waging a new fight for control of the city administration, were engaged in secret conferences at Saratoga, N. Y., and other summer resorts.

Over the week-end came indications that a vigorous conflict of opinion has broken out in Tammany itself over the policy of breaking completely with Gov. Roosevelt and aligning the hall with the former mayor, or of side-stepping the Walker issue until after the presidential campaign is over and Tammany will know what patronage to expect from Washington.

The former mayor was seen only briefly at the Larchmont home of A. C. Blumenthal, theatrical magnate, who has offered him a job at $500,000 a year. Walker, in pajamas, refused to talk. Blumenthal talked for him.

"Mr. Walker is very much run down and needs a rest, but he has shown some improvement today," Blumenthal said. "He left here this morning and walked to church, alone. I expect he will remain with us until Tuesday at least."

There were a number of week-end guests at the Blumenthal home. Walker did not participate in the entertainment that was being put on for them.

WILSON'S DAUGHTER ROOSEVELT VISITOR

Mrs. Sayre and Peter Gerry Tell Candidate Factions Will Be Reunited.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Francis P. Sayre, the former Jessie Wilson, daughter of the late President and vice chairman of the Massachusetts State committee, and Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island, called on Gov. Roosevelt today. They expressed to the Democratic presidential nominee their belief that party differences in New England States would be adjusted and that a united democracy would win the States for Roosevelt.

Gerry, preconvention supporter of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, said he believed feeling engendered by the defeat of Smith, at Chicago, would subside.

"The prohibition stand of the party and its candidates and the unemployment situation in Rhode Island will win many independent votes for the Democratic party," said Gerry.

Pleased by Connecticut.

Mrs. Sayre said it was her belief the gubernatorial candidacy of Gov. Joseph B. Ely would unite the divergent factions in Massachusetts and the "positive position" of Mr. Roosevelt would win the State's electoral votes.

Gov. Roosevelt, who returned last night from Bridgeport, Conn., where he made a campaign speech, said he was pleased with his reception in Connecticut yesterday and by assurances of party leaders at Bridgeport that the Smith and Roosevelt wings would be working together for the national ticket.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre were overnight guests at the Roosevelt country home. They will return to their summer home at Marthas Vineyard, Mass., tomorrow. Mr. Sayre is a professor in the Harvard Law School.

Presented With Medallion.

Gov. Roosevelt will spend Labor Day here, leaving tomorrow night for Syracuse to attend the State fair Tuesday. On Wednesday he will motor to the Vermont State fair at Rutland.

Mr. Roosevelt today was presented the first of medallions to be given each contributor of a dollar or more to the campaign fund. Robert H. Gore, Florida newspaper publisher, and director of the Shareholders of America, sponsoring the sale of medallions, presented the token to the nominee. The button bears likenesses of Roosevelt and John N. Garner, his running mate.

Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, who designed the medallion, was at the ceremony. Commenting on the presentation of the medallion, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I consider it an opportunity to be permitted to become the first shareholder. It gives me an opportunity to be one of the countless thousands, each of whom is contributing his small share in this movement we are launched upon to reclaim for the people themselves their equity in the Government of the United States."

Farmers Invited To Timonium Fair

Maryland Bureau Members to Be Special Guests Tomorrow.

Members of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation will be guests at the Timonium Fair tomorrow, Farm Bureau Day, according to an announcement by Josiah W. Jones, president of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau.

Mr. Jones said any member of the county farm bureau who wishes to take advantage of the day may obtain complimetnary tickets to the fair for himself, members of his family and a sticker to admit his automobile free by applying at the farm bureau office in the old courthouse at Rockville.

Members of other county bureaus may obtain tickets from their local bureau.

Jewish Veterans Favor Bonus; Condemn B.E.F.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 4 (A.P.). The Jewish War Veterans of America went on record here today for immediate payment of the bonus, but voted disapproval of the activities of the bonus expeditionary forces.

Another resolution stated that the group was not in accord with the "high-handed methods" taken by the Government to remove the men from Washington by force. A resolution favoring the repeal of the eighteenth amendment was passed.

WOMAN DRY LEADER ASSAILS DR. POLING

Mrs. Nicholson Protests Plea for Contribution to Help Reelect Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, made public yesterday a letter to Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, protesting against a request she said had been made for a contribution to help reelect President Hoover.

"Your letter," Mrs. Nicholson wrote, "asking me, a Constitutional Democrat, to assist the allied forces, of which you are chairman, in making a contribution in the campaign for the reelection of President Hoover and a dry Congress when the President is running on a dripping wet platform, seems to be an insult to my intelligence, when you know better than any one else the decided stand I took in 1928 against my own party for the very self-same program now proposed by the Republican candidate."

Mrs. Nicholson expressed "regret that you, of all people, should throw your support to a wet Republican candidate now, when you fought so persistently in 1928 against a Democratic candidate whose position was identical with that of the candidate you are now supporting."

"It is unfair," she continued, "to the millions of Constitutional Democrats throughout the country who have contributed thousands of dollars which has enabled you to build up an organization that you are now asking for more funds, trying to deceive the contributors into believing that you are still working for a dry Congress—at the same time working for a wet political party whose platform declares for repeal or worse.

"You further state that 187 of the 205 members of your executive committee indorsed the position you are taking. This prompts me to ask you to please make public the list of 187, as I must confess, with others, I have my doubts about this."

Ecuador Will Pick President Oct. 30

Election Dates Are Set by Edict of Provisional Government.

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A decree was promulgated by the provisional government under Alberto Guerrero Martinez, president of the Senate, ordering presidential elections for October 30 and 31.

Meanwhile former Provisional President Alfredo Baquerizo Moreno had gone to Guayaquil after the revolt of last week which cost some 800 lives. The coup was engineered by the followers of Neptali Bonifaz, president-elect, who was ruled ineligible because of alleged alien parentage.

It was announced the Senate was disposed to open an inquiry into the revolution to fix responsibility. Guayaquil dispatches today said the Red Cross had begun a drive for victims of the revolution.

Another Sailor Killed By Coast Motor Crash

Laguna Beach, Calif., Sept. 4 (A.P.). Fred Geisler, 35, of Lawrence, Mass., chief boilermaker on the U. S. S. Vestal, was killed and three of his shipmates were injured slightly early today when his motor car left the coast highway and crashed down a 100-foot enbankment three miles south of here. Geisler missed a detour sign because of a dense fog.

It was the second traffic accident within a few hours in which a naval service man was killed. Clarence Skinner, warrant officer of the U. S. S. Hatfield, died last night of injuries auffered when his car swerved from the coast highway and turned over.

$30,937,199 in Credits Arranged for Railroads

(Associated Press.)

The Railroad Credit Corporation said yesterday its monthly report to the Interstate Commerce Commission shows that on September 1 it had either actually made or authorized loans of $30,937,199 to railroads to meet their fixed interest obligations.

On the other side of the ledger, the corporation reported collections of rate increases for the first six months of this year under the schedules which took effect January 4 totalled $31,075,145.

SENATE CANDIDACIES ARE COSTING LITTLE

Low Expenditures Are Being Reported in Contrast With Other Years.

(United Press.)

Seats in the United States Senate, which often prove costly, are going cheaply in this depression year.

Reports to the Howell investigating committee show expenditures in senatorial primary campaigns, in which millions have been spent in years past, are for the most part on a strictly corn bread and molasses basis, running as low as $10 per candidate in some instances.

In numerous cases aspirants for the Senate dug down into their own pockets for their campaigns. This did not lead to lavish expenditures. They found the wolf lurking close to the doors of former party "angels" and friends. A small layout for postage and gasoline and oil for the car was for many of them the extent of the cost. A few reported no expenditures whatever.

"I had no hotel bills for I slept in my own car and ate very sparingly away from home," reported L. E. Eickelberg one of the contestants in the Iowa primary.

Howell's Expense Largest.

The largest expenditure yet reported during the present campaign season was $15,529 by Charles M. Howell, of Missouri, who left the deduction that all this came out of his own pocket by marking in the alloted space "no contributions." In only one other case was there an expenditure over $5,000, and most were well under this.

The campaign fund investigating committee, which usually is busy about this time traveling over the country running down reports of "slush" funds and hearing sensational stories, is idle. Its chairman, Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), Nebraska, is out on the Pacific Coast with some other senatorial committee. A few reports which have accumulated since his departure do not seem, on their surface, to cause any great alarm.

At least two who entered senatorial races decided that, after all, it was not worth it.

Some Withdraw From Race.

Arthur Simmons, down in North Carolina, commented in a lengthy letter in his own handwriting, "Money spent—very little, as I got out of race before primary—saw defeat." Bernard B. Shively, of Indiana, spent $15 before he found the going hard—he did not receive a cent in contributions—and explaining his withdrawal said, "I did not feel or believe that I could afford to advance the $500 demanded by the State committee before my name could be presented to the convention."

One senator-elect, William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was barred from the Senate because of spending $800,000 in the 1926 primary in which other candidates spent more, running the total to nearly $3,000,000. Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, of Marine Corps fame, reported a total expenditure of $800 in his unsuccessful campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania this year. A Georgetown University law professor, Lewis Cassidy, carried twelve counties in the primary there with a total layout of $25. The successful candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, Lawrence H. Rupp, reported he had received no contributions and hadn't spent a cent. Senator James J. Davis (Republican), who was renominated, has filed no report yet.

Expenditures in Illinois.

The Senate, likewise, turned away a senator-elect from Illinois, Frank L. Smith, for his campaign expenditures. The largest amount reported as spent in the primary there this year was $5,000 by Scott W. Lucas, who said it was his own money. Edward Sullivan, in Illinois, reported expenditures of $12, and Thomas A. Cummings, $10. The successful Democratic aspirant, Representative William H. Dietrich, reported expenses of $578.

In Idaho, Senator John Thomas reported as the only contribution, $223, by the senatorial campaign committee to print tariff speeches, while Owen T. Stratton's only contribution was 1,200 pamphlets given by the League of Nations Association, New York.

$25,000 G. O. P. Check Brings Request for Quiz

(United Press.)

The Senate campaign fund committee has been asked by Senator Claude A. Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, to investigate circumstances of a $25,000 check turned over to the Republican national committee by Thomas A. Johnson, of Boston.

"According to correspondence published between Mr. Johnson and officials of the Republican national committee, Mr. Johnson considered the amount in advance, while the recipients regarded it as a most welcome contribution," the Democratic national committee explained in a statement including the Swanson request.

"Mr. Johnson," the statment added, "makes very plain his intention of taking legal action, if necessary, for the return of his money."

Swanson addressed his request to Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), Nebraska, chairman of the campaign fund committee, who will return here next week from the West Coast.

Socialist Candidate Issues Labor Call

Norman Thomas Says That Workers Waste Strength in Aiding Old Parties.

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—In a Labor Day message to American workers, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, says labor has been wasting its strength by dividing its support between two political parties, "both belonging to Wall street."

Thomas says his party should have the support "of all workers with hand and brain who look forward to the conquest of machinery for life, not death." His message was released today at the Socialist headquarters.

"The main fight of Socialists is not against men but a system," he says. "In this fight labor needs its own party as much as its unions. Voting with the Mellons and Astors and Rockefellows is scabbing at the ballot box. Labor weakens its own cause everywhere by collaborating with the bosses at the polls."

29TH DIVISION RAPS HOOVER B. E. F. ACTS

Reunion 'Utterly Condemns' Course; Washingtonian Elected Commander.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Twenty-ninth Division Association, at its closing business session today passed resolutions condemning President Herbert Hoover for his action in the expulsion of the bonus expeditionary forces from Washington several weeks ago.

The resolution, passed after heated debate by a large majority, called "upon the United States Government to acknowledge and declare itself renegade to all of the laws of modesty, gentility, decency and morality which have herstofore been the standard of the said United States Government and the heritage of our people."

Further, the resolution urged that "the President, Herbert Hoover, be utterly condemned for the action which he took toward our comrades, both directly and indirectly."

The veterans elected Dudley Browne, Washington attorney, as their commander, and chose Newark, N. J., for the next reunion city. They voted for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and urged immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Opposition to Resolution.

Judge Harry I. Luftnam, of Hillsdale, N. J., who directed the opposition to the resolution in condemnation of President Hoover, told the reunion that "we should not condemn our commander in chief until we know more about the question, until we know all sides and both sides. I don't believe we are familiar enough with the bonus campaign to act on this resolution today."

Over his opposition, the resolution was passed, but came again to the floor when Capt. Chester B. Koontz, of Norfolk, who arose on a point of order urged reconsideration. He said he didn't "believe many of the voters on this resolution are qualified delegates to the reunion."

Michael Breitkopf, of Newark, N. J., judge advocate of the association, ruled however, that the question could not be reconsidered. His ruling was cheered by the veterans.

Only one "no" was recorded on the vive voce ballot on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Plan for Bonus Payment.

Payment of the bonus through the issue of currency was approved by the veterans in another resolution. The plan for payment provided:

"Let the Government issue so many $1 bonus bills as may be necessary to pay off each outstanding certificate at its face value. These bills would be slightly larger than the old dollar bill, but would be blank on one side. The veteran would receive 100 cents worth of merchandise or pay 100 cents on debts with each bonus dollar. Each succeeding recipient of the bill, however, before spending same would place one two-cent stamp on the bill. After the bill had passed through 50 hands the banks would accept the bill as legal tender and the Government would redeem the bill for the regular dollar. This plan would mean purchasing power to the amount of 50 times as much as the outstanding certificate."

Other resolutions called for economy in Government, for the segregation of white and colored patients in Government hospitals and for the abandonment of all consideration of the cancellation of war debts.

Washington Rejected.

Newark was selected as the convention city after the reunion had rejected the report of the time and place committee which suggested Trenton, N. J.; Anniston, Ala.; Gettysburg, Pa., and Washington, D. C. Washington was recommended.

An impending fight over the national commandership was broken when Michael Brettkopf, of Newark, withdrew in favor of Mr. Browne, who was recommended by the nominating committee.

The new national commander, who succeeds Fairfield H. Hodges, of Norfolk, is 41 years old. During the war he served as a first lieutenant with both the 110th Field Artillery and the 114th Infantry Regiments.

The complete list of officers elected by the association is as follows:

Dudley Browne, Washington, commander; Frederick E. Rohrbach, Newark, N. J., vice commander; Robert C. Bedford, Baltimore, vice commander; Col. Charles E. Borland, Norfolk, vice commander; Russel P. Freeman, Washington, vice commander, and David Miller, New Haven, Conn., vice commander at large.

Memorial Service Held.

Executive Committeemen — Arthur Smith, Charles N. Burr and James E. Bentley, representing New Jersey; Richard C. O'Connell, Carl J. McCleary and John Magin, Maryland; Hugh Williams, Danville; Robert Mitchell, Newport News, and William H. Pitchett, Norfolk, representing Virginia; Ira L. Evers, Hallock P. Long and J. Fred Chase, District of Columbia; Judge Anderson, Connecticut; F. M. Corbin, Alabama, and R. A. Wadsworth, Raleigh, N. C.

Capt. H. J. Lepper, Newark, secretary; E. N. Bloomer, treasurer; George S. Stewart, historian; Michael J. Corr, chaplain; Michael Brietkopf, judge advocate; Edward Lumpkins, sergeant at arms, and Maurice McGrath, service officer.

With all business attended to, the association turned itself to unit dinners and a memorial service tonight and prepared for the spectacular parade tomorrow morning, which will bring the reunion to a close.

Ocean Pounding Schooner to Bits

Wooden Boat Caught on Trip to Portland, Oreg.; Crew Believed Safe.

Marshfield, Oreg., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The wooden steam schooner Fort Bragg, bound north of San Francisco and Eureka for Portland, struck the south jetty at Coos Bay tonight and apparently was being pounded to pieces. The crew and passengers aboard were believed all rescued by Coast Guardsmen.

The steam schooner, striking the jetty at 5:30 p. m., was swung around by the seas to the south side and apparently hung tight and hard.

With a cargo of oil and general freight, the Fort Bragg was scheduled to dock at Portland, Thursday. She left San Francisco Bay September 1. Capt. John Samuelson is master of the vessel, which is listed as belonging to the Beadle Steamship Co., Ltd.

It carries a crew of about 20 men. The number of passengers was not ascertained.

Father Offers to Settle Bill With Two Children

Milwaukee, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Andrew Wisniewski, father of eleven, told Judge Thaddeus Pruss:

"I am rich in children and nothing else."

The judge was startled when he offered two of the youngsters to pay a $35 debt.

"I love them, but if the furniture company must be paid it can have two of them," Wisniewski said.

The judge vetoed the offer and dismissed the action.

REPEAL HOOVER, INC. WILL SEEK CHARTER

Young Democrats of North Carolina Bitter in Criticism of President.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 4 (U.P.).—A State-wide movement to "repeal Hoover" was inaugurated tonight by the North Carolina organization of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, which had their birth in this State. Certificate of incorporation for "Repeal Hoover, Inc.," will be filed Tuesday by the young Democrats with the secretary of state.

The movement, which was announced by State President J. Dewey Dorsett, of the young Democrats, is designed to raise money for the Democratic campaign this fall, with net proceeds to be divided between the local city and county, State and national young Democratic organizations.

The "Repeal Hoover" charter contains several choice barrages directed at the Republican party.

One of the purposes of the organization is "to assist in the restoration of peace, prosperity, happiness and the full dinner pail to the hungry, debt-ridden and jobless multitudes of American citizens who were enticed, misled and inveigled into a feeling of ease, security and safety on March 4, 1929, by the fulsome, evasive and erroneous promises and pledges of the Republican party and of the Anglo-Chinese engineer, Herbert Hoover."

The State organization will sponsor sale of automobile tags entitled, "End the Depression—Repeal Hoover," "Happy Days—Repeal Hoover," and "Young Democrats—Repeal Hoover."

This plan for raising money has been approved by the State executive committee of Young Democrats and has been adopted by Young Democratic Clubs in the State.

Dorsett announced appointment of L. K. Martin, Winston-Salem attorney and former president of the Young Democrats, of Forsyth County, as State manager of the "Repeal Hoover" automobile tag selling campaign.

Communists Fight Police in Lisbon

Troops Are Confined to Barracks After Four Are Badly Wounded.

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Troops were confined to barracks tonight after a clash between police and Communist rioters in which four persons were gravely wounded and ten others were less seriously hurt by bullets.

The disorders began after police had seized Communist pamphlets and banners in various districts. At 8 p. m. automobiles filled with Communists dashed into the Largo Alcantara district.

The Communists shouted and cheered for "the Soviets" and opened fire on police. Police returned the fire, seriously injuring two demonstrators. One policeman was critically injured.

Volunteer firemen in the suburb of Amadora hoisted a red flag over their small quarters during the Communist outbreak, but the authorities quickly forced them to lower it. The government took extreme and energetic measures to prevent Communist manifestations.

LINDBERGH SUSPECT CHARGES KIDNAPING

discuss the case, further than that they intend to continue their investigation in Clearfield County and to visit the farm where Schenck was found yesterday.

Mayor McCloskey, emerging from the room where Schenck was questioned, however, said the man explained that he was kidnaped June 10.

"My investigators," the mayor said, "have learned that a private detective lured Schenck into his car on that date on the pretext of adjusting some differences over the fish peddler's auto license.

"Schenck was taken to a place called Dubois' cabin in Clearfield County and kept there until recently when he was removed to Somerset County.

"We have known for several days that he was being held, but we did not learn the exact spot until yesterday, when one of the men guarding him came to me.

"Then Sheriff McCloskey (no, we're not related) and I got together and I got in touch with the Federal agents."

The guards, John Havenor and Reuben Rakestraw, were questioned briefly and have notified police they will report for questioning at any time.

H. H. Cupp, Johnstown merchant, also was questioned. He admitted supplying food for the guards and their man in Somerset County.

Schenck, who is remaining voluntarily in the custody of Sheriff McCloskey, said he would not attempt to leave until all angles of the case are cleared up.

McCloskey, District Attorney Bell, of Clearfield County, and Department of Justice agents expect to question him further tomorrow.

Robber Armed With Knife Escapes.

James Wright, 49, colored, of 914 O street northwest, awoke yesterday in a truck parked in front of his house, to find a colored man robbing him of $14 which he had in his pocket. When he struggled to prevent the robbery, his assailant threatened him with a knife and escaped.

WILBUR, AT RAPIDAN, REPORTS TO HOOVER

Gives President Account of Business and Politics After Western Trip.

Skyland, Va., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Back from a Western tour of more than two months, Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, gave President Hoover today an account of political and business conditions as he found them in his travels.

The Secretary, who has been combining his annual vacation with a tour of national parks and Indian reservations, arrived at the President's Blue Ridge Mountain camp on the Rapidan late last night. This morning, aids reported, he spent considerable time in conversation at the Chief Executive's cabin.

Wilbur himself was not available to newspapermen and no report was obtainable as to the nature of his report.

During the day the Rapidan camp lost two of its guests. W. K. Kellogg, Battle Creek (Mich.) cereal manufacturer, departed with his grandson, John Kellogg, who had traveled to the East with him to view the eclipse.

For almost the first time in his many trips to the Rapidan camp this season, the President encountered bad weather. Although there was little rain, clouds hung so low over the mountains that much of the time the camp was wrapped in mist.

Aids reported the Marine airplane which brought the morning newspapers and White House mail had some difficulty in finding the rock-marked circle on the mountainside in which the mail pouch usually is dropped.

The Chief Executive, planning to take no part in ceremonies commemorating Labor Day, does not expect even to issue a statement before returning to the Executive Mansion early Tuesday morning.

Miss Ibershoff is waiting at Viege for the arrival of her mother from the United States. Her sister's body will be cremated. An unidentified itinerant still is being sought in connection with the crime.

Mrs. C. A. Amos, of Alexandria. They declared she apparently lost her balance and toppled overboard. The craft was lurching violently in the rough weather, they said.

The yacht is owned by Mrs. Amos' husband, Dr. C. A. Amos, also of Alexandria. He had not embarked on the river trip, but planned to meet the party at Colonial Beach today.

Other members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Blaul, of Cumberland, Md.; William Tyler, of New York, and Mr. Ort.

Mrs. Ort's body was recovered late today and brought here. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

was attracted by the cries for help and assisted in the rescue.

The bodies of the three drowned persons were removed from the water and efforts made to restore breathing by artificial respiration were unsuccessful. They were later removed to a Baltimore funeral establishment.

The fishing party, which had come from Baltimore to spend the week-end at Grafton Cottage, had rowed only a short distance from shore when the tragedy occurred in 9 feet of water.

Mrs. Landon and her nephew, young Mickley, had left with the fishing party last night after witnessing the wedding of her daughter in Baltimore.

LABOR CHIEF SCORES INDUSTRY'S FAILURE

Woll Bitter in Denunciation; Few Workers' Parades Planned for Holiday.

New York, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Labor, organized and unorganized, prepared tonight to celebrate its annual holiday amid the wreckage and debris of a depression.

With 11,000,000 out of work and the treasuries and war chests of the unions depleted by months of providing for unemployed members, there will be little of the joyous celebrating of yesteryears. Instead labor will observe the day by counting the scattered signs of a coming upturn in industry and hoping that better times are not far off.

The American Federation of Labor, through Vice President Matthew Woll, spoke the mind of labor in a militant statement castigating the failure of industry, but predicting a forthcoming increase in employment due to governmental efforts.

Few Parades Planned.

Reports from industrial cities indicated that the hallmarks of other Labor Days would be missing. There were few plans for the long parades of marching men. There were to be few if any of those old-fashioned clam bakes and picnics with patriotic speeches by union officials and politicians.

"Labor Day brings tremendous encouragement to the masses of the wage earners of our country for early relief from a rate of unemployment that has grown in volume through a decade," Woll said. "The enormous efforts of the Government to stimulate employment seem about to reach the workers in the form of jobs.

"This Labor Day does not hold so much of promise for the long range future as it does for the immediate present. For industry has thus far done but little to put its house on a solid foundation. With the Government now at the point of entering every line of business on the grandest scale ever known, we may well say that this Labor Day marks largely a policy of abdication of industry from mastery of its own house, the Government taking its place.

"Industry Failed in Crisis."

"To attain a proper relationship in industry we need more conferences of industry, on its own initiative, with proper labor participation, so that the rules of the recovery period may hold open for industry the opportunity for individual initiative and freedom from additional political control. If industry fails to fulfill its mission, then Government must, as it has, act to save the people, no matter how far it has to go. But it will not escape history that industry thus far has failed in its greatest crisis, that it has not known how to organize and to govern its own operations and make the best of its own resources."

To several million Americans, Labor Day meant only another holiday, and, coming on a Monday, an extended week-end. New York was largely a deserted city as millions of its citizens hied themselves to neighboring beaches and resorts. There were pronounced exodus from the other major cities.

FIREMEN MAKE READY FOR MONSTER LABOR DAY PARADE

MADRID SEES EXILE FOR PLOT PRISONERS

Many of Ranking Nobility Reported Being Transported to Africa.

Madrid, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Increased activity around the military prison here today was taken to indicate that a large number of prisoners, including many of the ranking nobility of Spain, were being taken to Africa.

Reports were that three trucks were taking prisoners to Alcazar de San Juan, where a special train was ready to take them to Cadiz.

At the port city the Espana V was reported taking on stores. The transport can accommodate more than 200 persons and it was to sail for Villa Cisneros, Africa.

Officials were most secretive, but the prisoners from most reports were believed to be some of those arrested after the recent monarchist revolt, which was put down and three of its leaders sent to prison for long terms.

Meanwhile dispatches from Santander said the police at the nearby town of Cabreces had arrested a priest, Father Elias Alvarez, and charged him with complicity in the recent monarchist plot.

At Malaga police seized 20,000 kilograms of candy wrappers printed in the old monarchist color and allegedly intended as monarchist propaganda. The factory from which they were issued was closed and the police were investigating to determine where they were printed.

BIG FIREMEN'S PARADE CHIEF FEATURE OF LABOR DAY HERE

are dozens of other sports events planned elsewhere for the day.

President Hoover will not view the Labor Day parade this year, choosing to spend the day at his camp on the Rapidan. Nearly all of the Cabinet members will also be out of town, but there will be no lack of officialdom to witness the firemen's march.

The District Commissioners will head the dignitaries occupying the reviewing stand erected in front of the District Building. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will join them with other officials from Maryland and guest States. Others in the reviewing stand will include officers of the Washington Board of Trade, sponsoring the parade this year.

The committee of judges which will decide on the winners of the 50 cups and $1,500 in cash prizes will also share the reviewing stand.

The parade will start at Peace Monument and move up Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street northwest. It will go south on Fifteenth street and disband on Constitution avenue.

Survivor of Famous Trio.

About 200 floats are expected to be entered in the procession. Of these, the local Fire Department will enter 35 and the Police Department has prepared 15. There are 20 floats entered by fraternal and citizens' organizations.

Of the three most popular and faithful standbys of former Labor Day parades, only one is left. He will probably draw the greatest round of applause of any single figure in the line of march when he appears hitched to a fire engine of the olden days.

That figure is Tom, the last remaining of the trio of Barney, Gene and Tom, white fire horses of a bygone age in the Distrfct's Fire Department history. Barney and Gene died last year.

Out of the past also will come an old piece of apparatus which was the last word in fire equipment in 1741. It is being brought to Washington by the Greencastle, Pa., fire company. The old Columbia fire engine also will take its place with the historic pieces in line. It is entered by the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, and will be accompanied by an escort of veteran firemen.

Among the tributes to George Washington will include a miniature reproduction of Wakefield, birthplace of the First President, made by Washington Engine Company No. 17. The firemen will carry the oldest United States flag known to be in existence, a fifteen-star flag.

There are fifteen events on which the prizes are based. The highest award of $225 and loving cup will go to the visiting volunteer fire organization or police department with the largest number of uniformed men in line. There are other awards for ladies' auxiliaries, drum corps, most beautiful floats, oldest piece of fire apparatus, entry from the most distant point from Washington, and best comic entry.

A band and drum corps contest will be held at the Sylvan Theater, with a $225 cash prize and cup to the best band, and a $125 cash prize and trophy to the victor in the drum corps competition.

Visiting units which have signified their intention of participating include:

SOVIET ACTS TO END BREAKING UP FARMS

Peasants Leaving Collective Projects Can Not Regain Land, Is Ruling.

Moscow, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Soviet government moved to consolidate its collectivization gains today by decreeing that peasants leaving collective farms can not regain the land they contributed to the communal enterprise.

While members of collective farms were not in fact forbidden to reassume their individualities as peasants, strong pressure against such action was exerted by provisions restricting them to free state areas and forbidding the alteration of collective farm boundaries with a view to regaining their original plots.

The fact that free state land would likely be a great distance removed from a given collective farm probably will act as a deterrent on those who otherwise might consider returning to individual farming.

The decree was issued by the central executive committe of the Communist party and the council of people's commissars and was designed to "create a stable land ownership in collective farms."

It declared that instances had been noted where peasants had abandoned the communal farms and had been given back their original land, resulting in a reduction in the size of the projects.

The decree gave no indication of the extent of the movement, but its very issuance suggested the trend might have assumed proportions which the government considered harmful to the collectivization program.

One of the main inducements offered to peasants to join the farms is a privileged status to purchase such manufactured articles as clothing, shoes and household goods. But the government's inability so far to provide these in sufficient quantities for rural needs is responsible for some dissatisfaction in the peasantry.

Crooning and Jazz Mark New Washington Song

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Crooning has been elevated to the Worcester musical festival. Instructions to the festival chorus to learn to croon have been given by Albert Stroessel, director.

The crooning will be used in the "Song of Faith," written by John Alden Carpenter for the Washington Bicentennial. The Washington Memorial music is a jazz number, full of dance rhythms and syncopated themes. Explains Mr. Stoessel: "It is the tribute of this age in our language to George Wahington."

Urbanites Seek Peace; It Is Where They Were

New York, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—No one has been able to explain. Probably no one ever will. New Yorkers, spending their lives living elbow to elbow with millions of other people, invariably rush to the country for "rest and peace" when they have a long week-end such as Labor Day provides. There they find the same millions, all having raced to the same place for the same reason.

Back in the city which they have just left is the quiet and the peace of the desert. Every one has left town and the streets, the buildings, the subways and street cars all are empty and forlorn.

Walter J. Pray Ranks First in Masters' Play, With Burnstine Second.

Long Branch, N. J., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A total of 97½ match points for today's session carried Walter J. Pray, of Indianapolis, to the lead tonight in the national individual masters' tournament of the American Bridge League.

His total for the three sessions was 255. David Burnstine, of New York, retained his second place provisionally with 237 points, plus the 16.9 allowed him for a bye, or 253.9.

Ranking third was Louis H. Watson, of New York, who also drew a bye. His score was 235½, plus 16.8 for the bye, or 252.3.

Howard Schenken and Richard L. Frey, both of New York, tied for fourth place with 243.2, of which 16.2 was the bye allowance.

Champion is Twelfth.

Willard S. Karn, of New York, defending his title in the tournament, stood in twelfth place tonight after the third session. Paired with Burnstine, he made a difficult four-heart bid by a lucky finesse.

SEAL SALE CHAIRMAN NAMED IN ARLINGTON

Mrs. Norbert Melnick Again to Lead Tuberculosis Group's Work.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Mrs. Norbert Melnick has been appointed by the Arlington County Tuberculosis Association as county chairman in charge of the sale of Christmas seals, which begins Thanksgiving Day and ends Christmas Day. This is the fifth consecutive year that Mrs. Melnick has served as the county chairman.

Confident that the county's quota of $2,500 for 1933 will be raised, Mrs. Melnick stresses the fact that Christmas health seals are an investment as well as a charity. "As an investment in community health, there is nothing that surpasses the power of the Christmas seal," says Mrs. Melnick.

More than 1,200,000 seals will be sent to approximately 6,000 persons in Arlington County.

Ferdanard Snow, of Washington, was arrested early yesterday by Arlington County police on a charge of illegal possession of alleged liquor.

W. P. McKinley and G. Jackson, both of Arlington County, were arrested yesterday on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

There being no session of the county court today, the trio will be given a hearing before County Judge B. M. Hedrick tomorrow.

McKinley has been released on bond.

Mrs. Elmendorf, Leader In Library Work, Dead

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Henry L. Elmendorf, 77, former vice librarian of the Buffalo Public Library, and first woman president of the American Library Association, died here today.

Mrs. Elmendorf, before her marriage Theresa Hubbell West, was born in Pardeeville, Wis., and was educated in Milwaukee. In 1877 she began her library career as an employe of the Young Men's Library, and became deputy librarian when it became the Milwaukee Public Library. Twelve years later she was named librarian.

Williamston, N. C., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—J. W. Booles, of Taylorsville, Ky., died in a Washington, N. C., hospital tonight from a bullet wound said by associates to have been inflicted in a suicide attempt. His family was reported en route here from Taylorsville by airplane.

Booles came here yesterday to act as bookkeeper for American Supplies, Inc., during the tobacco sales season. No motive for the act has been advanced. Friends here said he was the son of State Senator W. W. Booles, of Taylorsville.

Small Crowd Honors Edison at Old Station

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—In a narrow, almost deserted street in lower Manhattan, 100 persons gathered in front of the old Edison Station today to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its opening and to praise the memory of Thomas A. Edison.

A bronze plaque on the old building records the fact it was the first commercial electric lighting and generating system in the world. When it opened, September 4, 1882, it boasted 59 subscribers, using 400 electric lamps.

$30,000 WATER TANK TERMED VALUELESS

from the nozzle. If a sprinkler is used, the owner has to exert almost as much labor in carrying the apparatus and placing it about the lawn as would be required if he carried the water in can and used a hand sprinkler.

On top of the standpipe are a number of overflow pipes, which are to carry off the water when the tank is filled. On only two occasions since the huge tank was built have any of the residents seen the outflow pipe discharging any fluid.

During the early morning hours, the users report, the pressure is better than the late afternoon and evening periods. During this time, however, it is impossible to get enough water to either bathe or to take a shower.

The Montgomery Hills section, the residents realize, is one of the highest points in the area served by the commision. Yet the standpipe towers more than 60 feet above the roofs of the highest residences, and if the tank is kept nearly filed at all times they see no reason why adequate pressure could not easily be maintained.

J. Donald Clagett, one of the Sanitary Commissioners, who lives near Montgomery Hills, is the only one interviewed yesterday who expressed satisfaction with the water force.

"We have plenty of pressure here in North Woodside. The tank maintains adequate pressure for us. Perhaps other people do not get enough pressure because the pipes in their homes are too small.

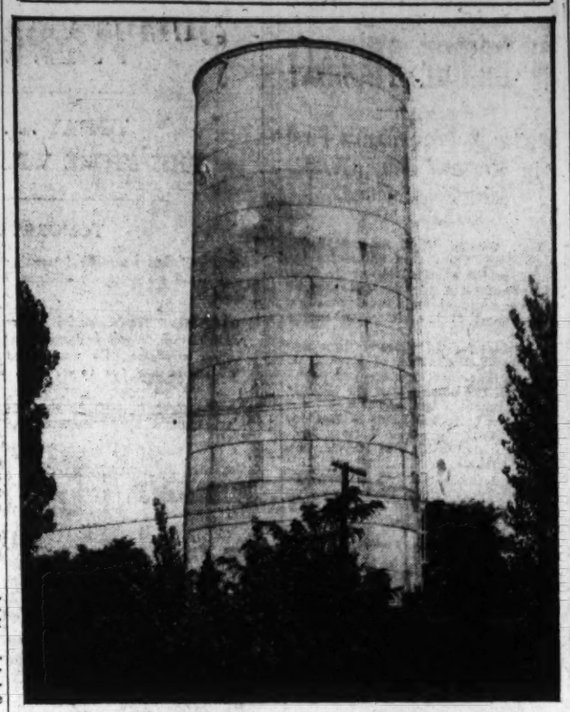
"The pressure was low for a day or two during the recent dry spell," he said, "but it came up as soon as we tied in with the District main at Georgia avenue. This, of course, was an emergency hook-up. Under normal conditions we can produce enough water in our plant to supply the needs of the entire area."

"There is no use having the tank there," said Robert Benner, developer of Montgomery Hills, "unless it serves the purpose for which it was erected. It would be easy to look at if we knew that it was the tank that was giving us pressure for our needs."

Another resident of the vicinity, who asked that his name not be used, said: "This water condition is an annual affair with the older residents. About this time of the year, the people who live out this way, go on a drinking diet of ginger ale, rather than drink the water which is served to us.

"At this time of the year, the water gets unfit to drink. The supply runs low, and they treat it with some sort of chemical which makes it abhorrent to the taste. Since the District water came into the mains there has been a perceptible improvement in the taste, although the pressure remains as low as it usually is at this time of the year."

STANDPIPE CALLED FAILURE



Post Staff Photo.

This standpipe, capable of holding 1,000,000 gallons of water, was erected near Montgomery Hills, Md., by the Washington-Suburban Sanitary Commission, at a cost of approximately $30,000. The residents complain it was wasted money because it does not provide enough pressure for their homes.

THOUSANDS MEET DELAY ON RAILROAD

Short Circuit at Manhattan Transfer Affects Travel to Capital.

Thousands of Washingtonians, homeward bound after excursions to New York, were delayed more than five hours last night when the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks between New York and Manhattan Transfer were blocked.

A connecting rod on an electric locomotive loosened at one end, and dropped to the third rail, fusing to it in a short circuit which resulted. In all, more than 50 trains were affected, including the Boston Express, which was due here at 8:55 p. m., and which had not arrived at midnight.

The train blocking the tracks was an Atlantic City Express, which left the New Jersey resort at 2:30 p. m. and was due in New York at 5:35. In addition to excursion trains, the regular trains between the Capital and New York were similarly delayed.

North Bergen, N. J., Sept. 4 (U.P.). Derailment of the locomotive of an Eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train near the North Bergen entrance to the Hudson River tunnel tonight tied up east and west bound traffic on the road for several hours. No one was injured and no coaches left the rails.

In leaving the rails, the locomotive also blocked the westbound track, which was cleared after four hours. Eastbound traffic could not be resumed for several hours more.

In the emergency, east and west bound traffic was handled over the Hudson & Manhattan Railway lines.

The cause of the derailment had not been learned.

TEXAS FLOOD LEAVES TRAIL OF DEATH AND DEVASTATION

dations were washed from beneath many buildings within four blocks of the International Bridge.

Several small residences near the river front were destroyed, others were badly damaged. Many families wept as they sought to reenter their ruined dwellings.

The country on the Mexican side, both up and down the river, suffered heavy losses to live stock and poultry.

As the flood receded, the first persons to cross from Laredo to Nuevo Laredo clambered over debris 10 feet high on the International footbridge. Later the driftwood was partially cleared away.

Railroad passengers from Mexico to Laredo and passengers from the opposite direction were forced to cross the bridge afoot to continue their journeys. All highways from Laredo were reopened after being closed by high water in creeks about the city.

The three persons marooned in the river after the destruction of part of the railroad bridge were rescued about daybreak today by five firemen of Laredo, who waded through 5 feet of water holding to a rope attached to a trolley wire on the international footbridge.

The men rescued were Jose Rodriguez Trigo, 33, customs inspector in Nuevo Laredo; Julian Lozano, 24, sanitary inspector in Nuevo Laredo, and Vincent Gonzales Flores, 33, a Mexican immigration inspector.

Watched by Searchlight.

Several hundred persons who had kept vigil throughout last night watched the men on a pile of driftwood by the light of a giant searchlight thrown on the scene from the Hamilton Hotel, eight blocks away in Laredo.

The refugees finally were lifted bodily from the driftwood and the party made its way back to dry land, where automobiles rushed the victims to a hospital.

Trigo was suffering from a cut on one leg, which had bled profusely, while Flores had received a cut on his face.

Trigo said the men, at times during the night, had despaired of rescue, but had been cheered as they saw the frantic efforts on shore to reach them.

Reports from Brownsville were that all previous rises on the Rio Grande would be surpassed when the crest of the flood waters arrived in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

A bulletin issued by the United States Weather Bureau in Brownsville stated a rise of 1 foot was recorded at Rio Grande City in the night, giving the river stage there as 24.6 feet. The bureau predicted a stage of 35 feet would obtain at Rio Grande City by noon tomorrow or shortly thereafter, a stage 1 foot higher than that of the June, 1922, flood.

Should the river reach 35 feet at Rio Grande City, a large part of Port Ringgold, Army post, and part of the city itself might be submerged.

McAllen reported the Rio Grande had slipped over its banks at Los Ebanos and was spreading slowly over the lowlands of western Hidalgo County. This territor, is inhabited largely by Mexican goat and sheep ranchers and farmers.

J. M. Pate, of McAllen, owner of international bridges at Zapata, Roma, Hidalgo and Rio Rica, said that the city and county of Zapata were isolated and without means of communication, telephone wires having been severad.

Levees Reported Holding.

Customs officials at Hidalgo moved their offices from the foot of the international bridge to the town proper.

Lieut. J. R. Nelson, piloting an Army airplane, flew over the threatened area about noon and reported all levees on the American side of the river were holding their own with the exception of a weak spot near Santa Maria, a settlement on the military highway.

Mexia, Tex., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A 14-inch rain in this section today washed out several stretches of railway track, marooned a trainload of excursionists in Mexia and sent the Navasota River to flood stage. No deaths or injuries had been reported.

A Southern Pacific passenger train en route from Dallas to Galveston, Tex., was halted here. About 400 persons were on board, most of them on their way to Galveston for the Labor Day holiday. A fast freight was marooned in the countryside.

Highway travel was blocked on all sides of Mexia. Farmers said damage to open cotton had been considerable.

3 Volunteers Injured Fighting $130,000 Fire

Kane, Pa., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Six warehouses, a garage and the Pennsylvania cattle pens were burned today in a fire of unknown origin which did damages estimated by merchants at $130,000. Three volunteer firemen were injured.

The blaze was discovered at 2 a. m., and several hours were required to subdue it. Burning embers were carried for more than half a mile, and flames were visible for 30 miles. Earl Cartwright, 38; James Wingard, 24, and Frank Haas were the injured, none seriously.

Egan Draws Cheer From Jury's Delay

Former Public Defender, Accused of Murder, Sees Hope of Acquittal.

San Francisco, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Frank J. Egan, deposed public defender, and Albert Tinnin, former convict, drew cheer tonight from the prolonged deliberations of the jury of seven men and five women which heard testimony in their murder trial.

"My long experience in criminal law," Egan said, "has taught me that the longer a jury stays out the more it leans to the side of the defendant."

Both the former defender and Tinnin, who are accused of slaying Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, elderly widow, last April 29, passed the day in their jail cells.

Since the fate of the accused pair was placed in their hands yesterday morning, the jurors have made requests for the transcript of evidence and for exhibits. Among the exhibits called for was the clothing worn by Mrs. Hughes the night she was killed, allegedly by Tinnin and Verne Doran, young burglar, at Egan's order.

RESULTS AT OTTAWA ANALYZED IN LONDON

U. S. and Other Nations May Get Commerce Through Trade Agreements.

London, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The United States, Argentina, France, Denmark and other countries which have enjoyed a large trade with Great Britain will all have a chance to make the best of business opportunities left to them after the Ottawa conference through new trade agreements, it has been suggested in official circles here.

"Most favored nation clauses" already in existence in trade treaties with foreign countries will prohibit Britain from extending preferences to such countries as Argentina, which has been supplying a large part of the British meat market, or to Denmark, which customarily supplies much dairy produce. But at least these foreign lands have the consolation that nobody outside the empire can receive more favors than they.

Nothing can be done, it is pointed out here, until the Ottawa agreements between the dominions and Britain have been codified into law. But with such tariff laws passed, presumably in the early autumn, Britain will become officially a protectionist country, and her new policy of food taxes will then be subject to discussion by foreign importers.

Initative for new trade agreements will probably come from foreign countries, it is argued. These will principally focus on commodities which have not been specifically dealt with at Ottawa. There are numerous commodities, it is suggested, which were taxed under the import duty bills of last winter and spring, but which are not included in Ottawa agreements. These will therefore still be subject to revision by the British government, and may be made the basis for reciprocal dealings between it and foreign producers.

For instance, if it should become apparent that no special dominion preferences were granted at Ottawa to dominion cauliflowers, the cauliflower growers of Normandy, France, may be able to obtain free entrance for their produce in return for an appropriate concession on certain British exports into France.

U. S. Gift to France Pays Debt for Liberty Statue

"France Defiant," perpetuating Joffre's 1914 victory on the Marne, will be presented to France next Sunday as a gift from America. Thomas W. Lamont (inset) headed the funds committee.

U. S. School Children Help With Pennies to Build War Memorial.

Paris, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—America's 48-year-old debt to France for the Statue of Liberty, presented to the United States, July 4, 1884, will be liquidated September 11 on the Marne battlefield.

On that date, the eighteenth anniversary of the great battle, there will be turned over to the French government a monument to which 4,000,000 Americans contributed.

"France Defiant" is the title of the huge statuary, which rises 130 feet above a 66-foot pedestal. It is placed on an eminence overlooking the site of the bitter fighting which wrought the French triumph over the army of the German empire.

The monument, the largest in France and one of the largest in Europe, stands as high as a seven-story building.

The idea for the gift was born in 1917 when America entered the war. A committee was appointed with Thomas W. Lamont, of New York, as chairman. A Nation-wide appeal was made and money came from every State. Many of the contributions were pennies, nickels and dimes from school children.

The design for the work was confided to Frederick Macmonnies, and from his model the sculptor Edmondo Quattrochi executed the monument. The pedestal was designed by Thomas Hastings.

The motif of the memorial is a woman, symbolic of France at bay, supporting a stricken soldier-son. An infant, emblematic of the future, clings to the hem of the woman's tattered robe.

On the front of the pedestal is Marshal Joffre's famous message to the French army on the eve of the battle:

"At this moment when a battle impends upon which rests the fate of our country, no one must look behind. All must unite to attack. Any troop finding itself unable to advance farther must hold the ground and fight until death. No retreat!"

On the rear of the pedestal the following lines, composed by Dean Andrew F. West, of Princeton, are inscribed:

"Here speak again the silent voices of heroic sons of France who dared all and gave all in the day of deadly peril, turned back the flood of imminent disaster and thrilled the world by their supreme devotion."

The gift will be presented to France in the presence of President Lebrun, Walter Evans Edge, American Ambassador, and other high Government dignitaries.

The committee in the Untied States which fostered the project was composed of Mr. Lamont, Robert Bacon, James Stillman, W. K. Vanderbilt, the late George F. Baker, Paul D. Cravath, Nicholas Murray Butler, the late Cardinal Gibbons, Clarence H. Mackay and Charles H. Sabin.

John Ridgley Carter headed a committee of Americans in Paris who supervised the construction at Meaux. On this committee were Edward Tuck, Walter Gay and H. O. Loderhose.

GEN. CHANG'S DEATH BLAMED ON REVENGE

Three Soldiers Are Arrested as Assassins of Chinese War Lord.

Peiping, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, former Governor of Shantung Province and one of the most picturesque Chinese militarists of modern history, has been assassinated by three revengeful soldiers.

Gen. Chang was fatally shot by the assassins as he boarded a Peiping express at Tsinanfu Saturday, messages from the Shantung provincial capital said today.

The trio were arrested and confessed they shot Gen. Chang to avenge the death of Gen. Cheng Chin-Shen, a cavalry commander under the Christian Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, who was executed at the order of Gen. Chang about five years ago.

Gen. Chang, who resided at Peiping, was at Tsinanfu to worship at his ancestral tombs and was hurrying back to be at the bedside of his aged mother, when he fell.

Chang first came to public attention during the Russo-Japanese War, when he fought with a band of guerrillas on the Russian side. Later he linked his fortunes with those of the famous Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, of Manchuria.

In 1923 Chang organized a brigade of white Russians, with whose aid he ruled Shantung with an iron hand. He was credited with ruining thousands of property holders by excessive taxation until he was ousted by Gen. Chang Kai-Shek's army.

Gen. Chang last came into prominence when he was reported to have shot and fatally wounded Prince Hsien Kai, cousin of the former boy Emperor Pu-Yi, who now is chief executive of Manchukuo.

Chang claimed it was an accident.

Chang started life as a coolie toiling on the docks of Vladivostock, and progressed in succeeding stages to bandit and then war lord.

Manchester, England, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Government intervention in the cotton textile strike was declared probable before another week passed in some well informed quarters tonight.

Officials of the northern office of the ministry of labor here remained in close touch with the situation over the week-end, and there was some indication that an initial move might be made at London tomorrow.

LEAGUE COMPLETES MANCHURIA REPORT

Commission Is Unanimous in Findings; Release Expected September 25.

Peiping, China, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Working through the night, the League of Nations Commission today completed its report on the Japanese military adventure in Manchuria and disbanded to present its findings at Geneva.

In the German Hospital, where the Earl of Lytton, chairman of the commission, had been confined with an internal complaint since the end of July, the commissioners grouped themselves around a table and signed the report, while nurses looked on.

Questioned as to the tenor of the document and as to whether Japan's intention to recognize the State of Manchukuo would have any effect on its usefulness, Lord Lytton replied:

"It's permissible to ask that question, but not permissible to answer it. I and the commission are now defunct. The report is unanimous and will be sent to Geneva by the quickest possible air route. It will be published simultaneously in Geneva, Tokyo and Nanking. More than that I can not tell you."

The report, compiled over a period of six months, after thousands of miles of travel and on the basis of information provided by scores of individuals, comprised 400 typewritten pages and upward of 150,000 words relating to Japan's subjugation of Manchuria last winter.

Two hours after the signatures had been affixed, Lord Lytton, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the American commissioner; Mrs. McCoy, Count Luigi Aldrovandi Marescotti, the Italian commissioner, and two secretaries departed for Shanghai in Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang's American-made airplane.

This party, accompanied by Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate to the league, will sail for Europe tomorrow on the Italian steamer Gange. Dr. Hermann H. Schnee, the German commissioner, and Gen. Henri Claudel, of France, will return via Siberia, starting September 12.

Shanghai, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Earl of Lytton, chairman of the League of Nations Commission on Manchuria, and a party of five arrived by air today from Peiping and will sail Monday for Geneva. The completed report is expected to be released September 25.

JAPAN VOTES RELIEF FUND OF $39,600,000

Third Special Session of Diet Ends After Stormy Debate on Program.

Tokyo, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The third special session of the Japanese Diet this year ended late tonight after appropriations of about $39,600,000 had been made for the relief of farmer, fishermen and small merchants.

(Special sessions of the Japanese Parliament were called in March and June to vote funds for the Manchurian and Shanghai military campaigns. Meanwhile the tremendous decline in silk and rice prices has caused distress at home that has forced rural families in many instances to subsist on cattle feed and soy bean fertilizer. Peasant delegations of late have focused the government's attention on the domestic situation, and the Diet session just ended was the answer.)

The session lasted four days overtime owing to the conflict between the majority Seiyukai party in the house and the government.

A major political crisis probably was averted when the House of Peers came to the support of the cabinet and epabled it to ride out the storm and achieve a compromise program. The situation was so serious several times, however, that the resignation of the cabinet or dissolution of Parliament appeared imminent.

The Seiyukai party criticized the government program as inadequate to alleviate appreciably the dangerous rural discontent and distress.

Streeper, 33 years old, served with the American Army overseas and also in Syria with the American committee for relief in the Near East. He was born in Columbus and attended Ohio University for four years. He was with the Department of Commerce in 1923 and 1924, and was appointed a vice consul of Career in 1924. He served at Canton and Tientsin, China, before going to the Near East.

Hickok, 26, is a graduate of Hamilton College. He entered the consular service three years ago and was assigned to Torontto, Ontario, and to Beirut, Syria, before he went to Jerusalem.

State Department officials recalled that on July 18, 1924, Maj. Robert W. Imbrie, American Vice Consul, was beaten and cut to death by a fanatical mob in Teheran, Persia.

With a companion, Maj. Imbrie was riding in a carriage and stopped to watch a religious demonstration. When Imbrie took a picture of the crowd, the natives assailed the foreigners.

The leader of the mob which killed Imbrie was executed, and the Persian government made apologies and paid indemnity after the United States had threatened to break off diplomatic relations.

'HOLIDAY' OF FARMS AT PARLEYING STAGE

Picket Lines No Longer Stopping Trucks; Peace Plans Being Pushed.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Its picket lines no longer blocking market-bound trucks, the farmers' "selling holiday" this week reaches the conference stage.

At Sioux City, where a blockade in the strike for higher farm prices was first established a month ago, the governors of Midwestern States have been called into a conference Friday on the agricultural situation.

As a preliminary, county leaders in Iowa will meet here Tuesday with Iowa and national officials of the Farmers Holiday Association, which sponsored the campaign to stop sales until prices rise.

The moratorium on picketing, ordered by Milo Reno, of Des Moines, national leader of the strike, seemed virtually achieved when only on two highways near Sioux City were farmers turning back live stock and produce trucks.

6,000 Join Strike.

The agitation, which brought casualties and arrests in western Iowa, flared up again, however, this time at Marshfield, Wis., where 6,000 farmers voted to join the strike.

Gov. Warren E. Green of South Dakota, who invited fifteen State executives to meet with him at Sioux City, has received only five acceptances.

Plans for the meeting are incomplete. Gov. Green said he has not prepared any particular proposal, but expressed hope that the governors could "work out an orderly and lawful program for marketing control."

The governors of Iowa, North Dakota, Minnesota, Oklahoma and Ohio have agreed to go to Sioux City or send representatives.

Only Gov. C. Ben Ross, of Idaho, has notified Green he is unwilling to attend. Other invitations went to the executives of Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kansas, Montana, Colorado, Missouri and Indiana.

Reno has indicated he will be at the Sioux City meeting. Attendance of strike leaders was suggested by Gov. Green.

Expectations Undisclosed.

Just what Reno and his associates expect the gubernatorial conference to accomplish has not been disclosed. He has said that their demands would be satisfied by some plan for restricting production, regulating distribution and setting up in the Midwest a unified system for marketing farm commodities.

Pending the Sioux City and Des Moines meetings, observers here are watching closely the situation at Woodbury (Sioux City) County, where local leaders refused to recognize the Reno order against picketing.

Carlos Goltz, attorney for the Woodbury County Association, demanded that the governor proclaim a general holiday on the selling of nonperishable farm goods until after their conference.

Except that he has made statements against "mob rule," Gov. Dan Turner, of Iowa, has not commented on the situation. Gov. Floyd B. Olson, of Minnesota, who some time ago advocated martial law in stopping marketing, advised farmers not to sell anything but milk, butter and eggs.

Postal Clerks' Session Hears Senator Robinson

Indianapolis, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The United National Association of Post-office Clerks opened its Central States conference here tonight.

Principal speakers at the opening banquet were Fred D. Sullivan, Chicago, national treasurer; Thomas F. Dolan, Boston, Mass., national president; United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, and Dr. William M. Larrabbee, Indiana representative. Toastmaster and permanent chairman was George S. Boehm, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"LOG-ROLLING" IN FARM STRIKERS' WAR

This shows one of the means used by farmers' holiday pickets to win arguments with market-bound trucks when drivers ignore verbal commands to halt. In this case pickets near Omaha have hurled a large log across the highway to make the blockade effective.

CATHOLIC CHURCH'S HOLINESS STRESSED

Grace E. Reardon Speaker for Evidence Guild on Campus of C. U.

"The Catholic Church has four marks by which she may be known: she is one, holy, catholic and apostolic," said Miss Grace E. Reardon, speaking yesterday afternoon for the Catholic Evidence Guild on the campus of the Catholic University.

"She manifests the mark of holiness in three ways, in her doctrine, in her worship and in the lives of her followers," Miss Reardon continued.

Her doctrine is holy because she teaches the doctrine which Christ gave to His disciples. She repeats over and over the lessons of the imitation of Christ—self-sacrifice, love of suffering, poverty, chastity, obedience.

"Her doctrines, it is universally granted, have ever been consistent with the highest moral standards. Nor has she prescribed this moral code as a mere idle formula, unrelated to life, but she has established it as a guide to conduct in every walk of life and under all circumstances. She has maintained that code without fear or compromise, though often at great cost, from a worldly viewpoint. Like her divine Master, she has often been offered the kingdoms of the world if she would but sacrifice a little of her integrity."

John G. Bowen, president of the guild, spoke on the "Resurrection as a Proof of the Divinity of Christ."

200,000 Soviet Youths March in Red Square

Moscow, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Approximately 200,000 shouting and cheering youths paraded in Red Square this evening before Joseph Stalin and other government and Communist party leaders in celebration of the Eighteenth Annual International Youth Day and the fifteenth anniversary of the Young Communists Internationale.

Bands blared the "Internationale" and banners, posters, and effigies were hoisted high as the youngsters, representing every branch of industry, school and sport organization, marched gaily through the ancient square for two hours and a half. They were greeted by smiles and waves from Stalin.

Vienna, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The twenty-ninth International World Peace Congress opened a five-day session here today in the former Plenary Hall of the Parliament Building. The congress was to have met here in 1914, but the delegates were unable to attend on account of the outbreak of the World War. This time they heard peace orations echo in the same hall which resounded to cheers at the declaration of war in 1914.

Scottish Farmers Plan Tax Protest

Government Given Warning in Closing of 78 Whisky Distilleries.

Elgin, Soctland, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Many Scottish farmers, facing bad times through the closing of 78 distilleries, today were reported planning a protest to the government against the "crushing whisky tax."

The distilleries in the combine known as the Scottish Pot Malt Distilleries, were marked yesterday for colsure by combine officials, who gave as the reason heavy taxes, overproduction and underconsumption. It was disclosed today that both the distillers and farmers previously had warned the government of the condition of the industry.

"We can give no hope of resumption of work until the whisky tax is reduced to a great extent," said a distilleries' spokesman today. "The approaching crisis was brought to the notice of the government by both the distilleries and the farmers, but nothing was done. We are to make renewed protests asking fair treatment. We want liquor taxed according to its alcoholic strength."

Labor's Adherence To Ideals Lauded

Mine Workers' Head Says Men Have Turned Deaf Ear to Demagogues.

(Associated Press.)

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a Labor Day statement yesterday, congratulated "the members of labor's ranks upon their coiness and their adherence to the aims, the purposes and the principles of the labor movement which they have exercised throughout the past year."

"We marvel sometimes," he said, "at the splendid degree of self-restraint that has characterized the life of the workers during the past hectic year.

"Those who adhere so loyally to the fundamental principles of the organized labor movement have refused to listen to the false preachings of demagogues and dangerous prophets. They have turned a deaf ear to those who would either destroy or turn our great organization from its true purpose and make it a means for their own personal profit and advantage. They have refused to heed the advice of those who would destroy us. * * *

"Let us continue along that safe and sane pathway in the year that lies ahead, hoping, praying and believing that better times and better things are in store for us."

RODRIGUEZ PLEDGES POLICY OF FRIENDSHIP TOWARD U. S.

palace and began formation of his cabinet, also naming other new administrators.

Meanwhile, after Ortiz Rubio and his family had said a sad farewell to tearful friends, the former president dropped all pretense of illness having caused his decision and published a statement in which he declared the political situation was responsible.

Need of Coordination.

The present difficult economic situation requires the coordination of all departments of the Government, he said, adding that his administration had not been able to achieve such coordination recently.

"Since I am identified with my party's revolutionary ideals, I can not even consider losing its support or the moral assistance of its prominent members," he wrote. "I think, therefore, it is really advantageous to the country that I present my resignation.

"Gen. Calles' unselfish desire is also mine—that pacific change in the administration is the most important thing and that the date of the change is not important. I do not pretend that ill health, although real, is important enough to be characterized as serious since acceptance of the presidency implies sacrifice of life itself."

Gen. Calles is the dominant figure in the National Revolutionary party and the nation. Rodriguez had been war secretary since Calles resigned that post and the new regime is expected to consolidate the dominant faction of the party, which is the only politcal group functioning in Mexico at present.

Rodriguez's Statement.

Rodriguez, in his first statement, said: "I have been honored by Congress with appointment as constitutional president. I must hereby state that I will make all necessary efforts to fulfill my duties in organizing the national government with a unity of action which may bring back confidence among the people in order that they may devote themselves to reconstruction and economic development of the country. I will carry over the principles of the revolutionary party program, adjusting my actions to the law within the limits provided by the constitution."

Ortiz Rubio, who had held office since February 5, 1930, and whose term ran until 1934, smiled serenely when he said good-bye to many friends at Chapultepec Castle.

Senora Ortiz Rubio calmly received the embraces of many relatives and friends in her private apartment, while their three young children ran from one floor to another in happy preparation for a journey.

Gen. Eulogio Cortiz, named to command the military escort for the former president, placed himself at Ortiz Rubio's orders while the family's baggage was being taken to the presidential train. Manuel Padilla, former mayor of the capital, and former Finance Secretary Luis Montes De Oca were among those at the castle.

When the former president went to the railroad station a large crowd was present to shout farewell. United States Ambassador J. Reuben Clark, who had planned to be at the station, arrived too late to say farewell to the departing party. Ortiz Rubio noted his absence, but the train pulled out within three minutes after the party arrived at the station.

More than 100 troops of the Twenty-ninth infantry were aboard the train. As a further guard of honor, an exploration train filled with troops, including a machine gun company, preceded the train to the border. The train probably will cross the border at Brownsville. The former president's party included, besides his immediate family, his wife's sister, Esther Ortiz Mejia; a secretary, Nicoforo Guerrero; the family physician, Gabriel Jimenez, and Gen. Nazario Medina.

New President Is 43.

Rodriguez, who is 43, was born in Guaymas, State of Sonora, and joined the constitutionalist revolt when he was 24. He rose rapidly through the ranks and became a division general. He served as military commander of Lower California and Mexico City and was head of the second military zone of the republic.

He traveled several months abroad studying European military camps and became assistant secretary of war. Later he became secretary of industry and then war secretary.

His military record includes the campaign against Huerta in 1913; against the Zapatistas in 1915; against Villa in Guanajuato State, where he was wounded.

In 1916 he participated in a campaign against the Yaqui and in 1920 commanded a column against Col. Canto to suppress the Lower California separatist movement.

He has three children—Juan, 7; Perando Julio, 6, and Abelardo, 4.

His business interests are many, including large holding stock in the Agua Caliente race track and resort.

Rodriguez named Gen. Juan F. Azcarate as chief of the presidential staff and Francisco Gaxiola as his private secretary.

PROBE IS ORDERED IN DEATH OF CHILD

dition was diagnosed as infantile paralysis.

The boy was taken to Children's Hospital and he died Saturday night.

Mr. Sheckels was bitter in his complaint against the attention given to him by the hospital. When he left the hospital he asked that he be notified if the child's condition became worse.

The boy died at 9:20 Saturday night, he said, and he did not learn of his son's death until 11 o'clock, and then the information, he said, came to him through a friend who had inquired at the hospital as to the boy's condition.

Hospital doctors asked him for permission to perform an autopsy, he said, but he refused.

4 GERMANS IN TOKYO ON WORLD AIR TRIP

Von Gronau and Companions End Passage of North Pacific Islands.

Tokyo, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions who are flying leisurely around the world from Germany, completed their passage of the bleak north Pacific Islands today at 3:35 p. m. (1:35 a. m., Eastern standard time) when they alighted at Lake Kasumigaura, the Japanese naval base near Tokyo.

The four Germans completed the final 600 miles of their Pacific crossing from Nemuro to Kasumigaura in 5 hours and 22 minutes. The weather was perfect, a welcome contrast from the fog and cold of the Aleutian and Kurile Islands, which they had been crossing for more than a week.

Tonight the fliers were resting at the German embassy, and Capt. von Gronau said they intended to remain in Tokyo or at Kasumigaura at least a week. Their ship will be overhauled, and about September 12 the quartet will start for Manila, via Kagoshima, Shanghai and Indo-China.

The captain said the comparative ease with which his plane negotiated the fog-ridden northern Pacific islands, together with his three Atlantic crossings, convinced him of the early feasibility of commercial airways linking the three continents around the world's northern rim.

The German fliers left the German North Sea coast on July 22 and flew to Tokyo via Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, Canada, Alaska and the Aleutian and Kurile Islands, in easy stages.

WILLIAM FITZHUGH HONORED IN FAIRFAX

Friend of Washington Paid Tribute by Alexandria Patriotic Group.

The memory of William Fitzhugh, a close friend of George Washington, was honored yesterday afternoon by the Washington Society of Alexandria, Va., of which he was the first president. The society held the services at the Ravensworth Farm, in Fairfax County, Va., where Fitzhugh and his wife are buried in a small private cemetery.

A wreath was placed on the grave of Fitzhugh by Robert Edward Lee DeButts and another on the grave of Ann Randolph Fitzhugh, his wife, by Ann Carter Lee Ely, both the youngest direct descendants of William Fitzhugh of Chatham and Ravensworth. Besides the members of the Washington Society of Alexandria, a large number of the descendants of the Fitzhugh family were present. The Rev. William Morton, chaplain of the society, gave the invocation, and W. B. McGroarty, president, led the services.

Former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, was the principal speaker, outlining the important events in the life of William Fitzhugh; his close friendship to Washington and the part he played in the founding of the United States.

William Fitzhugh was born on September 4, 1741, at Chatham on the Rappahannock River near the boyhood home of Washington. After Washington moved to Mount Vernon he was a frequent visitor at the home of William Fitzhugh at Chatham. During his later life Fitzhugh moved to Alexandria. He advertised Chatham for sale in 1796 intending to make his future home at Ravensworth.

While at Chatham, besides his activities in agriculture he engaged in public and patriotic affairs; he was delegate to the Virginia constitutional convention in 1776; member of the Continental Congress, 1779-80; Virginia House of Delegates 1780-81; and 1787-88; and State Senate, 1781-85. He was president of the Alexandria Society from its founding shortly after the death of Washington until his death on December 19, 1809. Ravensworth passed through several generations of the Fitzhughs and was later inherited by Gen. William Henry Fitzhugh Lee, the second son of Gen. Robert E. Lee. It is now owned by George Bolling Lee, of New York and Fairfax County.

The services yesterday were a part of the Washington Society of Alexandria's plans for the Bicentennial celebration and is the fifth in the series of services honoring Washington and his intimate friends who were closely connected with Washington in the founding of the Nation.

GLADYS O'DONNELL IS WINNER IN WOMEN'S AIRPLANE RACE

every previous running of the classic. The only other two in the field, Miss Florence Klingensmith, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Betty Lund, Troy, Ohio, were third and fourth.

Mrs. Haizlip was actually in the lead when the race was officially called, but the contestants had been started 15 seconds apart and Mrs. O'Donnell, who won the same race in 1930, had enough margin to be declared winner.

Mrs. O'Donnell averaged 185.476 miles an hour as compared with 187.574 miles an hour made last year by Mrs. Moriarty. She won $2,250 and a plaque as her prize.

Mrs. Haizlip's average was 183.126 miles an hour, winning her $1,250. Miss Klingensmith won $750 and Mrs. Lund $500.

The fliers continued on their course despite the driving rain and both Mrs. O'Donnell and Mrs. Lund completed the eight laps of the 10-mile course.

Women Race Through Rain.

The women, with visibility almost at zero, raced through the rain, drawing gasps of astonishment from experienced men pilots who admired their skill and nerve, but deplored the chances they were taking.

The race was started in a murky atmosphere, with Mrs. Haizlip first to complete the initial lap. She was flying the same low wing monoplane her husband used to set a new transcontinental record of 10 hours and 19 minutes last Monday.

Close on her heels was Miss Klingensmith in the plane she borrowed from John Livingston, Aurora, Ill., while Mrs. O'Donnell, winner of the event in 1930, was third in a tiny white racer belonging to Ben O. Howard, Kansas City, Chicago mail pilot.

Mrs. Haizlip, determined to win because she has been second every time the event has been run, missed a pylon in the grayish mist the second time around, pulled away, and streaked by the finish line in third place. Mrs. O'Donnell assumed the lead.

The storm broke when the fliers were on the fourth lap when Mrs. Haizlip, notwithstanding her handicap, wrested the lead away again.

Unable to see, the fliers swung wide of the course, but continued to maintain their speed until the rain lifted on the seventh lap and ground flags were waved to stop the race. All landed except Mrs. Lund, who continued, but the judges had already called off the races.

It was the prettiest flying exhibition of the races.

Neil R. McCray, Fairview, Pa., today won the cup race honoring the memory of the late Edward A. Stinson, pioneer flier, by completing six laps of a 3½-mile course in 16 minutes 8 seconds. Rain began falling as the race, which had six cabin ships in the field, started.

McCray was followed over the finish line by Jack Morris, Pittsburgh, Pa., and John C. Barstow, Midland, Mich.

Dr. Beecher Called Chief Abolitionist

Assistant Epiphany Rector Preaches on "Power of Prophecy."

"Perhaps no single influence in American history had so much to do with the freeing of the slaves as the preaching of Henry Ward Beecher," said the Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills, assistant rector of the Church of the Epiphany in a sermon yesterday morning. "The Power and Price of Prophecy," was the topic of the sermon.

"It took courage for St. Paul to go to fellow Jews with their prejudice, to the heathen with their superstition and the Greeks with their learned scepticism," said Mr. Wills. "Paul's enemies confessed that he had 'turned the world upside down,' but we can see that he turned it right side up.

"St. Paul tells that at midnight an angel of the Lord stood by him and said, 'Be not afraid.' Our Lord promised his twelve disciples, 'Lo, I am with you even unto the end of the world.' Thank heaven we have such help in the altar and in the Holy Communion which bring God near to us, and I pray you not to neglect it."

Col. C. A. Rice, Game Hunter, Dies

Veteran of Several Wars Succumbs at 54 to Heart Disease.

Willmar, Minn., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Col. Cushman Albert Rice, 54, of Willmar, globe trotter, big game hunter, veteran of several wars and business man, died today at his summer home at Green Lake, near here.

Death was due to a heart disease. Col. Rice, who was gassed and wounded during the World War, had been in failing health for some time.

Rex Beach, the novelist, used Rice for one of his leading characters in a book.

Col. Rice, the son of former Lieut. Gov. A. E. Rice, of Minnesota, had spent much time in big game hunts in China, Africa, Australia and South America. In the last 30 years, he also had devoted considerable attention to a sugar plantation and a 3,000-acre cattle ranch he owned in Cuba.

Curtius Sails for U. S.

Bremen, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Julius Curtius, former minister of foreign affairs, embarked aboard the liner Columbus tonight for a lecture tour of the United States.

College Attendance Figures Expected to Stay Normal

Nation-Wide Survey Indicates Million and Quarter Students Will Enter Higher Institutions of Learning Within Next Fortnight.

Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Collegiate America—a youthful army which generally withstands all economic attack—will march on the campuses of the Nation a million and a quarter strong within the next fortnight.

Statements from officials of universities throughout the United States reveal little general difference between the expected 1932-33 enrollment and that of the "peak" year of 1929-30.

While some deans confess they foresee slightly smaller registrations, others look for additional students because of their "reasonable" tuition. At least one college expects to boost its enrollment by trading entrance fees for potatoes, eggs, and anything else marketable.

That institution is Illinois Wesleyan. Its president, Dr. W. H. McPherson, announced his college would accept "farm produce to the full amount of the tuition per year and pay a premium above the market price."

The University of Nebraska, while admitting early indications foretold a small enrollment decrease, believes students transferring from more expensive schools will go far toward making up the loss.

Washington University at St. Louis expects a larger enrollment because it is offering free courses in law, engineering, liberal arts, and graduate courses, to the unemployed who rank as juniors or higher.

Reports from over America indicate universities in the East and West expect either the same or increased enrollments. Some State universities in the Middle West anticipate slight decreases.

Ryland Newman Dempster, registrar, announces applications from new students at Johns Hopkins University are running 10 per cent ahead of last year.

The University of Maryland looks forward to an 11 per cent increase—and this, it was added, follows the largest enrollment in its history, that of 1931-32.

Ohio State University expects not more than 1 per cent decrease. Its traditional Big Ten rival, the University of Illinois, estimates a loss of 10 per cent. Registrar G. P. Tuttle, while refusing to "say anything official," said permits granted to new students to date are running almost 800 behind those last year.

The University of Michigan expects no decrease. A. H. Parrott, registrar of North Dakota Agricultural College, believes the action of the institution in setting its opening date back a week will permit prospective students to earn enough additional money to keep the general registration at normal.

While most colleges and universities in the Rocky Mountain region declared it was too early to estimate their enrollments, they were sufficiently optimistic to believe the 1932 matriculation might exceed that of 1931—which was larger than 1930's.

The Oklahoma A. & M. College reports twice as many transcripts have been received to date as normally, and predicts an enrollment which will be "close to the peak." Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, expects no change "either way."

Normally 1,300,000 students enroll in the colleges and universities of the United States. Last year the figure was about 1,250,000.

Mrs. Sarah G. Thompson Was in First Contingent to Visit France.

Los Angeles, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sarah G. Thompson, 60, of New York and Nashville, Tenn., leader of the first contingent of Gold Star mothers of the World War who went to France in 1930 to visit the graves of their sons, died here today at the home of Mrs. Marie Mullins, a friend whom she had been visiting.

He had suffered from arthritis years attended to his duties at the commission in a wheel chair.

Ainey, who was nationally known among utility experts, quit the commission post he held for 17 years after the governor charged him with receiving favors from utility interests. The charges led the State Senate to a decision to investigate the commission.

In resigning, Ainey denied the charges, stated his physical condition would not permit him to go through the ordeal of an investigation, and said he could not afford the expense involved.

He served four years in Congress, was a delegate to the Interparliamentary Union Conference at Geneva in 1912; at The Hague in 1913 and at Stockholm in 1914, in which year he attended the conference at Tokyo as president of the Japanese-American group of interparliamentarians.

MAN AND WOMAN DIE IN WRECK OF PLANE

New Craft Goes Into Tail Spin at 500 Feet; Third Passenger Hurt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 4.—Franklin C. Ankeney, about 38, and Miss Kathleen Trieber, his sweetheart, were killed in an airplane crash at the Mexicos Farms Airport near here today. His new Fairchild K-R-34 plane which Ankeney had brought to the city yesterday for commercial purposes went into a tailspin when about 500 feet up after taking off. The right wing hit a tree.

GERMAN HELMETERS SUPPORT VON PAPEN

to chat with disabled veterans reclining in wheel chairs in a reserved section of the grandstand.

War Dead Honored.

Soldiers who had fallen in battle were honored by impressive minutes of silence and by bands chanting the familiar "Ich Hatt, Einen Kameraden," as the flags were lowered.

Several of the Hohenzollern princes remained in the background, contented to let the ministers reap the chief honors of the occasion.

Seldte and Duesterberg, striking a keynote that "the old German army is no more, but its spirit lives," administered a solemn oath of allegiance to the old imperial colors of black, white and red, to 195,000 Steel Helmeters.

Former Crown Prince Wilhelm and his wife witnessed the demonstration from seats of honor on the airdome terrace, while his brothers, Eitel and Oscar, marched in the ranks. By Wilhelm's side were numerous high officers of the old imperial army and navy.

Austrians in Parade.

Contingents from Danzig, the Saar and the southern Tyrol were conspicuous in the parade. Prince Starhemberg headed a small delegation of the Austrian Heimwehr, the equivalent in that country of Adolf Hitler's storm troops.

The full force of Steel Helmeters, nearly as strong as the Reichswehr and the German police combined, delighted an estimated 300,000 spectators with the precision of their maneuvers around the huge Tempelhoff field.

Paris, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Steel Helmet manifestation in Berlin was linked by part of the French press today to the German government's representations for equality of armaments. In a vigorous editorial, the newspaper Le Temps said:

"Germany affirms here with brutal freedom her will to reestablish a military state, for which the army constitutes the sole political armature, and for which war is, to speak plainly, a national industry, as was the case before 1914 for the Prussian kingdom."

Les Debats bluntly accused Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher of preparing for bloodshed.

Seven Killed, Ten Injured During Helmeters Parade

Berlin, Sept. 4 (U.P.).—Four members of the Steel Helmets and three spectators were killed in accidents today during the war veterans' rally. The three spectators died in the crush at Templehof Airdrome.

Ten others were injured. Twenty-five persons were arrested for a series of isolated clashes, chief Communist attempts to harass the Steel Helmets.

Subsidy Granted Ireland's Farmers

Free State Guarantees Them Price of $10 Per Barrel for Flour.

Dublin, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Irish Free State farmers can expect a price of $10 per barrel for flour as a result of government subsidies, Dr. James Ryan, minister for agriculture, told a meeting at Cashel today.

Millers will be compelled to take a stated percentage each year of wheat grown in the Free State, said Dr. Ryan. Over and above the price paid to the farmers, the government will provide a subsidy, which, along with the millers' "average price" will make up the "guaranteed price." The latter will be increased from $9.40 per barrel to $10 as the season progresses, added Dr. Ryan.

In regard to barley and meats, the farmer would be provided with a "guaranteed market," the minister said. The government was endeavoring to protect and enlarge the home market for meats and other agricultural produce, he asserted, and would arrange for alternative foreign markets.

FRANCE AND HITLER.

Cautious maneuvers following delivery of the German aide memoire to France, relating to equalization of armaments, now indicate that the French reply will take a conciliatory tone and that some hope will be held out for a reorganization of the German military system. At the same time no increase in strength can be allowed, to say nothing of permitting revision of the Treaty of Versailles. Conversations between France and Great Britain seem to have developed the thesis that concessions to Germany which will modify the rigidity of the iron rule laid down in the treaty, without actually enabling Germany to enlarge its military system, will strengthen the hands of the Von Papen government and correspondingly weaken the Hitler party.

The reply to Germany will, of course, lay stress upon the theory that equalization of armament should be downward toward the ideal of disarmament. Germany will be reminded that the powers are trying to reach an agreement for reduction which will be equivalent to a relative increase of German arms. No doubt reference will be made to the Hoover proposal for a general reduction of one-third, which most of the powers have accepted "in principle." France, while in fact refusing to cooperate, can not declare itself flatly opposed to the Hoover plan, since such a declaration would leave France with no excuse for keeping Germany disarmed. The French political strategists therefore block the Hoover proposal by raising the question of "security," while continually protesting that France burns with the desire to reduce armaments whenever it can be accomplished without endangering the safety of the nation.

A conciliatory reply from France will help Chancellor von Papen and Gen. von Schleicher to fight their battle with Hitler. They may be able to show the German people that a way has been opened for reorganization of the military system, making it more effective if not larger, and thereby taking another step toward eventual relief from the rigor of the Treaty of Versailles.

While the triumph of Hitler might cause him to become more conservative under the responsibility of power, France takes no chances with him. He represents the intransigent spirit that will not be satisfied until the Treaty of Versailles has been torn up, the Polish corridor abolished, and the German army and navy raised to parity with French war strength. Hitler himself after obtaining power might not favor execution of such a program, but his followers certainly would insist upon it, and he might be compelled to make the disastrous attempt in order to hold his place. Little as France may relish the outbursts of Gen. von Schleicher, it prefers to deal with him rather than with Hitler.

ARMY VS. NAVY AGAIN.

Agreement on the part of the United States Military and Naval Academies to resume athletic competition after a holiday of four years is a major event in the realm of sports. The football season is always incomplete without a clash between the Army and Navy elevens. Their game this year, scheduled for December 3 at Philadelphia, will give added impetus to the autumn program of sports.

The public is less concerned with the terms of the agreement than with the fact that Army and Navy teams will once more meet on the gridiron in regular competition. The fact that the agreement is only a truce and not a complete understanding will not detract from interest in the game. Officials may continue to disagree as to the eligibility rules under which the two teams are built up, but that will not restrain the vigor of the Army's irresistible charge against the Navy's immovable line, and vice versa.

It is a mistake to consider the agreement as a complete victory for West Point. For the present contests will be held under the same regulations that existed at the time when athletic relations between the two service schools were broken off. Each institution will continue to make its own eligibility rules. Presumably the Army will continue to use cadets who have starred in football at other institutions, regardless of how long they may have played in intercollegiate competition. The Naval Academy has indicated no change in its policy of limiting athletes to three years of varsity competition. No reconciliation for this fundamental difference in policy seems to be in sight.

It is obvious, therefore, that the service schools have resumed competition, pending further discussion of eligibility rules. In spite of the breach between them, Army-Navy games were played for charity in both 1930 and 1931. The teams have engaged in irregular and unofficial contests at a disadvantage. Why should they not conduct scheduled games earlier in the season on an amiable basis? The joint statement issued by the two institutions indicates that they have decided upon such an arrangement.

Some adjustments to put the Army and Navy on a more even basis of competition seem to be advisable. But negotiations for changes with that end in view can proceed more advantageously while the two institutions are engaged in friendly contests than while they were at outs. Before the present agreement expires in 1934 it is to be hoped that the basic controversy will be ironed out.

SHOULD WOMEN WORK?

Labor Day finds the Federal Woman's Bureau checking up on how feminine workers have fared during the unemployment crisis. Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the bureau, observes that unemployment is more prevalent among women workers than among men. But it appears there has been little actual discrimination against women employes. Since women are new recruits in industry and the positions they hold are often temporary, it may be assumed that the loss of jobs among them would be greater.

It is old-fashioned to observe that the number of women who still hold jobs is probably greater than the total number of unemployed in the United States. Women have thoroughly established their right to work, even when men are unable to find employment. Yet the fact remains that the invasion of women into the fields of business and industrial employment is one of the foremost reasons for the current surplus of labor.

Unemployment is usually attributed to the extended use of machinery. But statistics sustain that theory only in part. As a matter of fact, a considerably larger portion of the total population was gainfully employed when the census of 1930 was taken than for any other period for which accurate data are available.

In view of man's increased productivity it seems unreasonable to argue that a larger percentage of the population should be gainfully employed now than was at work 50 years ago. Yet the increase since 1880 has been considerable. Much of this increase is represented by the larger number of women holding jobs. In 1930 approximately 11,000,000 women were gainfully employed. Without considering the effects of labor-saving machinery, the rise in the number of individuals demanding work is sufficient to have glutted the labor market.

The question as to whether women should be given equal privileges of working with men is debatable, even in feminine circles. But that does not mitigate the difficulties that arise from a larger number of people seeking a place in the economic system. If women are determined to engage in gainful pursuits to a larger extent, there will be more leisure for men, whether it comes in the form of unemployment or through the withdrawal from the economic system of those specially adapted to other pursuits.

The problem here involved goes much deeper than the retention of jobs by women who are now employed. A considerable number of women are forced by circumstances to earn a livelihood. But on the whole the woman who goes into industry or business without the urge of economic necessity impairs the chance her husband or future husband will have to earn an adequate living for his family. In considering the immediate benefits that accrue from holding a job, women ought not to forget the far-reaching effect their presence in industrial pursuits has upon the supply and demand for labor.

HUNGER IN THE SOVIET.

Soviet Russia's food shortage is becoming acute. For the second time in recent weeks the prices of meat, eggs, cheese, &c., have been sharply advanced by governmental decree. Americans and other foreigners in Russia will be chiefly affected by this decree, the dispatch says, because such products are not available for the native population anyway. Russians have to subsist on bread and what vegetables and fruit they can obtain from the ration stores.

It is a curious commentary on the Soviet system, theoretically dedicated to the interests of the working man, that Russia is the only country except China where a shortage of food exists. In virtually every other country there is a superabundance of food. The prospects of increasing the supply in Russia are not bright, because the towns have almost no industrial output to exchange with the farmers for foodstuffs. The peasants are concealing such food as they possess.

This situation is apparently a direct legacy from communism. When the farmers were forced into collective groups they slaughtered their cattle and planted crops large enough to support themselves only. Autumn sowing is more than 50 per cent behind last year. Harvesting is slow because the peasants have nothing to gain by being industrious. The Soviet recently gave them permission to sell part of their crops on the open market, but the farmers are indifferent to this privilege because they can obtain virtually no manufactured goods in return for their produce. The Soviet dictators have concentrated their efforts upon the construction of gigantic plants and factories, giving little attention to the output of consumers' goods. Operation of these factories has been no more successful that the collectivized farms. The result is general stagnation.

These conditions will put the Soviet to a severe test during the coming winter. Present indications are that suffering from hunger will be widespread, and drastic measures may be necessary to break the deadlock between the farmers and the industrial interests next spring. The Moscow government is in the habit of throwing overboard a few communistic principles every time the people experience fresh hardships resulting from their blunders. It will be interesting to see how far they will go in their march back to capitalism as a result of starvation and distress during the coming winter.

RAIL WAGE ADJUSTMENTS.

A new controversy over railway wages looms up on the economic horizon. Several weeks ago it was reported that the railway executives would seek to cut wages 15 per cent below the pre-depression level at the expiration of the existing agreement for a 10 per cent reduction. Now it appears that the railroads are determined to seek a 20 per cent decrease in basic pay under the terms of the railway labor act.

If such a move is made, it may be assumed that the railway brotherhoods will resist it. The unions agreed to the 10 per cent reduction, but they did so reluctantly, and then only on assurance from the railroads that the reduction would be in effect for only 12 months. A bitter fight may be expected if the carriers undertake to reduce basic pay by 20 per cent.

It may be that the railway executives are circulating this report with a view to making a new agreement easier. If the carriers threaten to seek a 20 per cent cut under the Federal statute, they might obtain a compromise of 15 per cent. At any rate it may be assumed that the carriers are discussing in public a more drastic cut than they expect to obtain.

On the other hand, restoration of the pre-depression pay scale at the termination of the present agreement is out of the question. The brotherhoods doubtless anticipate a further cut instead of relief from the sacrifice they agreed to last February. This will not, of course, soften their opposition to the proposed cut, but it may open the way to a compromise.

Last winter the brotherhoods demanded more extensive employment in return for their pay reduction. This plea will probably be renewed. The policy of maintaining high wages for a few employes and dismissing many to reduce operation costs is now recognized as a mistake. Since the cost of living has fallen much more than railroad wages, the unions may have difficulty in defending the present basic wage scale. But when they demand that the carriers employ the funds obtained from lower wages toward hiring men who are now unemployed, they are on a sound economic footing. In the last two years the railroads have neglected much work that ought to be done. If the pay roll were spread out among more workers, repairs could be accelerated and essential construction work resumed. On this basis there should be ample grounds for a compromise that would not reduce the living standard of employes, and yet relieve many who are now in straitened circumstances.

Iowa farmers are refusing to sell food because they have too much, and Soviet peasants are refusing because they haven't enough.

Iowa pickets and pitchforks are causing Old Man Supply and Demand to squirm a little, at that.

FARMING BY ELECTRICITY

From the Boston Transcript.

Seven New Hampshire farms have served for the past seven years as experiment stations in the use of electricity in agriculture. That is to say, the results of the use of electricity by seven enterprising New Hampshire farmers have been recorded and studied by the New Hampshire Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the national and New England committees on the relation of electricity to the farm. A report of progress was made when the experiment was two years old. Now comes another.

Two principal questions presented themselves at the outset of the experiment: Would electricity be practical power on a farm? and could economic volume of use be built up sufficiently to support the required investment? Experience, we are told, has answered both questions in the affirmative. Another question of unusual interest at the present time is answered in the statement that "signs of financial depression were hard to discover in the current consumption. These farms were affected, but apparently the effects were not transmitted to the electric usage."

The dairy, fruit and poultry farms that constitute the group were equipped with appliances metered in such a way that detailed records could be secured each month for each piece of equipment. In some cases comparative tests with other forms of power were made. Sixty major and forty minor pieces of equipment were in use on the farms, covering thirty-six or more distinct operations. Electricity lightened the burdens of the home as it made easier and more efficient the labor of the men.

Among the conclusions reached in the present report is the finding that the farm electric load tends normally to increase, and that increased volume of use has in most cases made the users eligible for lower rates. It is significant in that connection that while the limits of the use of electricity in the farm home are easily discernible, the development of electric power in farm operation is considered as being only well started.

Such are some of the conclusions set forth in a report devoted to facts and figures. Back of them are aspects of the case not capable of reduction to statistical form. There is the effect upon health and happiness of country folk as they have placed at their command facilities for convenience and comfort which are available in the towns and cities. The electric lights that gleam from farmhouse windows, the electric pump that is the twentieth-century successor of the old oaken bucket that hung in the well, the electrified kitchen and the electrified dairy, the many farm appliances moved by electric motor, mean a new order down on the farm. It is gratifying to be told that this New Hampshire experiment shows it to be a practical departure.

We may occasionally be officious in foreign affairs, but the attempts of France and Germany to get Uncle Sam to butt in on the question of how big an army Germany should have is one thing he can resist.

THE BRIDGE PLAYER'S WAIL.

Had I the gift of writing song,
And did I know how music's caught
With quarter notes and halves and long,
I'd frame a tune to this one thought
With which the bridge fiend's mind is fraught,
And set it down in black and white
To play on fiddle strings drawn taut;
"I didn't hold a card tonight!"

I'd drone of perfect bids gone wrong
Despite what Culbertson has taught.
I'd have the brasses come in strong;
The flutist, joining in the sport,
Would blow until his breath runs short
A solemn and a tragic flight.
The drums would rattle this report:
"I didn't hold a card tonight;"

A dirge with tolling bell and gong
Should fit all losers so distraught,
Who think high cards to them belong.
To hold them rivals never ought,
Of battles without weapons fought
An anthem of despair I'd write
For all who mutter, overwrought;
"I didn't hold a card tonight!"

However sorry be my plight,
No pity in this way I'd court;

If You Use Red Clay for the Brick, Your Building Will Also Be Red

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HAVE you wondered why some men seem feminine and some women masculine?

Perhaps you will find the answer in "genes," minute divisions of life discovered by Dr. Thomas Hunt Morgan, the great biologist who learns and teaches at Cal Tech, Mecca of modern scientists.

Here is the story of genes, told briefly in words a layman can understand.

All life, as you know, develops by the multiplication of cells.

When the male and female reproductive cells unite the resulting embyro is a microscopic particle so small that it could be lost on the point of a needle.

Yet within this cell are many minute rods called chromosomes. And the reproductive cell of each species contains a certain number of chromosomes that never varies—wheat 42, monkey 54, man 48.

Half of these are furnished by the male, half by the female, and each cell contains a complete set arranged in pairs.

Each pair of chromosomes, male and female lying side by side, is destined to become a certain part of the mature creature. One pair provides the element that becomes eyes, another, perhaps, the respiratory system or the brain or sex equipment. Each of the 24 pairs in the human cell contains some particular formation or quality inherited from the parent stock.

But this is not the end of wonders. These minute rod-like chromosomes are not indivisible units. Each is divided into sections called "genes." And as the chromosomes lie side by side, a gene of one may exchange places with a like gene of the other. For example, when the two chromosomes lie together, the gene that determines the color of hair in the male chromosomes is exactly opposite the gene that determines the color of hair in the female chromosome, and the two may change places.

The result is an oddity. The male chromosome contains a female part; the female chromosome contains a male part.

This "crossing over" of genes explains the exceptions to Mendel's law of heredity. It may also explain why an individual apparently female is predominantly male.

Does a woman equal or surpass men in activities usually masculine? Observe her closely. Has she the figure, face and adventurous spirit of a man? However charmingly feminine she may be in some particulars, in others she may be more man than woman.

The plum tree must bear peaches if a peach limb is grafted on its trunk.

Depression and the Campaign.

New York Times.

No one, not even Democratic managers, could wish the depression to continue for the sake of its effect on the election this year. That it is bound to have a marked influence, no matter what may happen before November 8, is admitted by all. Republicans whose memories or, political studies take them back to 1874 or 1892 know that they have reason to fear hurt to the party in power by reason of financial and industrial collapses, men out of work, violent agitations, strikes and threats of strikes, widespread discontent in the agricultural States. To cite these precedents is not to assert that political history will repeat itself this year. History has its own unexpected ways of confounding the historian. But the indubitable relation between economic forces and political movements will doubtless have a fresh demonstration, more or less pronounced, in this year of grace and grievances.

Bonus Compromise.

Baltimore Sun.

A gleam of hope in the agitation among veterans for payment in full of adjusted compensation certificates comes from Missouri. That State's department of the American Legion adopted a compromise resolution with few dissenting votes. It approved full payment at the earliest moment possible for the Government—"without jeopardizing the financial structure of the Nation."

Bonus a Campaign Question.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The veterans are pinning their hopes on the new Congress to be elected in November. The bonus question is thus injected directly into the political campaign. The case against the bonus payment is just as strong as a year ago, when President Hoover portrayed the perilous state of the government's finances. That condition has not improved. The people have been called upon to pay enormously higher taxes to meet the Government's mounting expenses, and from diminished incomes. Sympathy for those veterans who may be in distress cannot obscure the fact that the Legion is asking for something which the country cannot possibly afford.

To Move Commodities.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Both the railroads and the banks long ago moved to assist their members and now the newly formed Commodities Finance Corporation has begun to function.

Its purpose is not to raise commodity prices, as has been erroneously stated, but to finance their purchase and orderly marketing. The announced object is to "keep business flowing smoothly in sections where it has been hampered by inadequate banking facilities."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Nervousness" Discussed by a Physician—Mad Scramble of Modern Life a Leading Cause.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The term "nerves," or nervousness, seems to cover about all the human emotions, from excitability and ire to depression.

There are as many causes of nervousness as there are causes of rheumatism. The most common causes of genuine nervousness are found in infected teeth, diseased tonsils and autointoxication of the intestinal tract. Other causes of so-called nervousness, purely psychological, are as many and varied as the many experiences of daily life.

Then we come to a rather large class of semiresponsible individuals who feel that absorption in card, dancing and liquor parties and such are the great goal of life, express a marked degree of nervousness.

Causes of true nervousness may be found in a toxic thyroid gland. This is particularly common in the region surrounding the Great Lakes and the mountainous districts of some of the Southern States.

As a whole, we find that nervousness may be both physical and psychological. Your family physician will be able to diagnose the situation and give treatment according to the needs of the case.

Nervousness is increasing far too rapidly because of increased demands upon the central nervous system incident to modern methods of living, especially to the more conjested life in cities, the multiplication of interests and activities, haste at meals and eating out of tin cans. Perhaps the largest single cause may be stated in the foolish ambition and the mad scramble to "keep up with the Joneses."

Treatment of nervousness must be through and by the aid of the medical profession. All physical causes can be prevented largely through the medium of the periodic check-up by the family doctor.

Doubts Whether Parole Board Will Improve Conditions—Punishment for Crime Should Be Certain.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have my doubts whether the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole just appointed will do as much good as well-meaning but too emotional reformers expect. The board must pass on the fitness of prisoners for parole, see that their treatment is satisfactory while in jail, and after they are paroled extend them a helping hand on the road to good citizenship. This is quite a job. It will require knowledge of human nature and special training of a high order. And yet the board's members are to serve without pay and without provision for the employment of expert help when necessary.

I have always questioned whether civic officials who serve without pay, no matter how conscientious and public-spirited, are half as efficient as those who work on salary. For that reason, as well as because there is danger that such a board will often be too easy on confirmed crooks, I have my doubts.

Certainly it is not altogether a good thing for the potential wrongdoer to be tempted by a prospect that his punishment will be lessened after conviction if he gets caught. I think there is great need for prison reform, but not such as is too tender-hearted. I don't like the kind of prison reform which tends to stultify the scriptural warning that "the way of the transgressor is hard." W. B. F.

Installment Plan for Taxes Successful in the South—Recommended for the District.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have noticed that a number of cities in Virginia, including Richmond, Norfolk and Portsmouth, as well as cities in other Southern States such as Atlanta, Ga., Charleston, S. C., Kingsport, Tenn., and others have adopted the installment plan permitting the taxpayers to pay their taxes in installments.

Under this system, taxpayers may pay portions of their taxes in advance, that is weekly, semimonthly, monthly or semiannually. The deposits so made draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent in some places. The depositors are given a tax deposit book similar to the Christmas savings bank books. I believe that it would be a very good idea to adopt some such system here in the District of Columbia. If such a system were adopted, the depositors would be more inclined to save money for taxes, and then when the taxes fell due, the taxpayers would not be hit so hard by having to pay a large amount at one time.

Gov. Roosevelt Must Capture Bulk of Independents in Order to Be Elected.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the presidential campaign Gov. Roosevelt faces a different and a more complicated situation than he faced in the last gubernatorial campaign. The Walker case has put the governor into a "hole" from which he can not emerge without lessening his chances of carrying his home State. The seemingly unsportsmanlike attitude of Alfred E. Smith is another problem that is causing a good deal of perplexity in the Roosevelt camp. Added to these handicaps, the Democratic standard bearer has to contend with a Republican leadership that is strongly entrenched in power and possesses a powerful Federal machine, a thing the Democrats lack.

Gov. Roosevelt must capture the bulk of the so-called "independent vote" on election day or President Hoover will be easily reelected.

Janet White O'Brian Bride Of Dr. Winfield L. Butsch.

In the presence of a distinguished company of Buffalo residents and out-of-town guests, the marriage of Miss Janet White O'Brian, daughter of the Assistant to the Attorney General and Mrs. John Lord O'Brian, to Dr. Winfield L. Butsch, took place in Buffalo Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony at 5:30 o'clock was in St. John's Church, with the Right Rev. John C. Ward, Bishop of Erie, Pa., officiating, assisted by the Rev. Walter R. Lord, and was followed by a colorful reception at Mr. and Mrs. O'Brian's home, 150 West Utica street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Rosamunde Rumsey as maid of honor and Mrs. Kellogg Mann as matron of honor. The group of bridesmaids included Mrs. Francis V. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Horatio Whitridge, of Baltimore; Miss Clarissa Todd, of Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Frances Caryl O'Brian and Miss Allson Lord O'Brian, sisters of the bride.

In a fortnight Miss Frances O'Brian will have the bride's role in a similar ceremony in the same church, her marriage to Ames Bartlett Hettrick being set for September 17.

Dr. Butsch had as his best man Robert Dulley, of Montclair, N. J., and the ushers were Alexander Richards, of Chicago; Weyman Strother, of Montclair, N. J.; Dr. Francis Smith, of Buffalo; Charles Curtis, Roger Ellis, Dr. Robert Montgomery, Shirley Taylor and Kellogg Mann.

The bride's graceful gown was of heavy white satin, with a bertha of rare old pointe de Venise and with the same lovely lace mounted on satin to form the train. A tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried gardenias and lillies of the valley.

The maid and matron of honor were gowned alike in brown chiffon frocks, slightly trained, with brown transparent velvet capes. Their wide-brimmed hats of brown velvet had contrasting ostrich tips tucked under the brims. Each carried a cluster of yellow and orange nasturtiums.

Two of the bridesmaids wore yellow chiffon gowns and three, gowns of orange-tinted chiffon, all being made like those of the other attendants with brown velvet capes and worn with brown velvet hats and slippers. They, too, carried bouquets of flame color and yellow nasturtiums. Mrs. O'Brian's costume was of beige chiffon and brown lace and she wore a brown velvet hat.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. du Pont, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Whitridge, of Baltimore; Charles Mixer, of Boston; Eric Mantle, of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Carpenter, of Terre Haute, Ind.; George W. Jones, associate pastor, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends of the couple.

The bride was escorted by a brother, Edgar Stone. She wore an afternoon frock of African daisy red crinkled crepe, made with a short jacket having long sleeves. She wore also a tete de negre velvet hat and carried a bouquet of green orchids. For her only attendant, the bride had her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. O. Stone 3d, of New York.

Frederick Kimble, aid to Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne, was best man for Lieut. Allan, who dispensed with ushers. The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the home of a friend at 1009 Park avenue.

After a wedding trip to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Lieut. Allan and his bride will make their home at 1611 Twenty-ninth street northwest, Washington.

The bride is a niece of Edgar Lee Masters, American poet. She and her first husband, Capt. William Sergeant Bouvier, who died about three years ago, were divorced in 1926. Lieut. Allan, who is in the United States Infantry, is now with the American Battle Monument Commission.

Miss Patricia Mencia will return to her apartment at Wardman Park Hotel tomorrow after spending the weekend as the guest of Mrs. Joseph Vanderbilt, who entertained at a house party at her home on Long Island. Miss Mencia will join Miss Ann Randolph Crichton here, who has been spending a few days with Mrs. William Manning in North Carolina.

Mr. R. R. Guthrie was host to a party of young people at the supper dance at the Rossdhu Castle Club Saturday night.

Esther Lucille Linger Bride of George H. Clark.

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday at 2 o'clock when Miss Esther Lucille Linger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Linger, of this city, became the bride of Mr. George Hunter Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Clark, of Alexandria, Va., the wedding taking place in the home of the bride's parents, 2305 Woodridge street northeast.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of white crepe, fashioned on long flowing lines, with a jacket having puffed sleeves. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley. Her only attendant, Miss Adele Davis, wore a long flesh-colored crepe gown with a jacket of French blue. She wore blue slippers and carried pink roses.

Mr. George Butler acted as best man and Dr. C. H. Butler, father of the best man, performed the ceremony before the immediate families and a few close friends. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and summer flowers.

The mother of the bride wore an afternoon dress of pink georgette and the bridegroom's mother wore dark blue figured chiffon.

Mr. Harvey T. Townsend sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." He was accompanied by Mr. Walter T. Holt and Miss Alice B. Hill on the mandolin and guitar. Mr. Holt and Miss Hill also played the wedding march.

The bride, who previously attended Corcoran Art School, is a student at George Washington University in art. She is well known in musical circles here as a radio and concert soloist. The bridegroom attended Benjamin Franklin University.

After a reception which was held for those attending the wedding, the young couple left for a motor trip to Montreal and Quebec, coming back by way of New York City. The bride's traveling dress was of crinkle crepe in the new beet root shade, and with it she wore black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home after September 15, at 2305 Woodridge street northeast.

Mrs. Ernest Pascal, wife of the novelist, entertained informally at dinner at the Rossdhu Castle Club Saturday night.

Mrs. Gus Eriebacher and Mrs. Alex Wolff, of Woodley road, with a party of friends, have sailed on the Berengaria for a trip to Nova Scotia.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DURING my stay in Hollywood, I had occasion to talk with Harry Pringle, Paramount's make-up artist. And I watched him at work, too. Right on the set, he had four compact little make-up kits. And the big things he did with them. What a revelation!

Those of us who watch the finished production as it is flashed on the silver sheet, let our imagination play, and temporarily live the various roles with the actors and actresses. When an actress portrays several different ages, ranging from young girl to grand old lady, we become wide-eyed with wonder and admiration. True, most of the famous screen stars are so talented, so capable and so full of personality that they can change their walk, their manner, their speech, to spell youth or old age at will.

But few of us know or could possibly visualize the many tricks of make-up that are employed to actually make the star look the part. Lines are painted in, or blocked out; the size and shape of the lips is altered at will; eyes made to look large or small and "black eyes" planted not by a blow of the fist, but by a gentle painting from the make-up box; eyebrows are altered and with them the entire expression of the face changed.

Street Make-Up.

No doubt my readers are most interested in the street make-up that most of the film stars use. It would surprise you to know how many use no make-up at all. Most of the stars use just a touch of rouge and only enough powder to tone down even a trace of shine. The lips are highlighted more than any other features, for daytime; the eyes for evening.

I learned that some of the stars use grease paint even for the street, but put it on very, very thin and apply rouge lightly over it. For evening a heavier make-up. Mr. Pringle believes that rouge should be blended carefully and well upon the face almost to under the eyes, also way out on the cheeks and even over the eyebrows. He feels that in this way a more natural and blended tone is achieved.

"Of course, make-up is not harmful," he says emphatically. To the contrary, the constant rubbing and manipulating is beneficial. The grease paint and make-up used at the studios are always of the finest. And then, all the stars know the importance of thorough cleansing and removing make-up before retiring. "Yes, hot water and a good soap for cleansing," Mr. Pringle advises, "then ice or cold water again, a lot of cold water or ice to close the pores."

It is possible to make lips as small or as big as stars wish. He blocks out the natural lines first with grease paint, then the lips are "put on" with little brushes, the kind the Chinese laundrymen use, outlined with the fine point first, then filled in and blended with fingertips. Brown mascara photographs better on screen than black, and brown eyebrow pencil, too. Grease paint should never be darker than your skin; lighter if anything.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

MASTERS OF BRIDGE.

MR. CHARLES H. GOREN, of Philadelphia, Pa., by vocation is a lawyer, but by avocation a Bridge player who usually finds the correct way of playing very difficult hands. In explanation of the fact that he plays many contracts at such an unusual declaration as four notrump, he stated recently that he had been playing with a partner who found it necessary to approach so carefully and so thoroughly that notrump was never mentioned until they were playing beyond a game contract. Mr. Goren has never won an important national championship, but on numerous occasions has been second or third, and it is only a matter of time before he will crash through with an impressive victory.

An interesting example of his marvelous strategy in the bidding is given on the hand below:

West—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ 8 7 5 ♡ Q 7 4 ◇ A Q J 10 9 ♣ A 2
♠ A K Q J 10 6 ♡ K 5 3 2 ◇ 3 2 ♣ 4	W E S	♠ 9 ♡ A J 10 9 ◇ 8 6 ♣ K 7 6 5 3
	♠ 4 3 2 ♡ — ◇ 8 5 4 ♣ Q J 10 9 8 7 6 Mr. Goren

The bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
5♡(4)	5♣(5)	Double(6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) West's Opening bid of three spades was overoptimistic.
(2) North's Overcall was entirely justified.
(3) East, with a very fine hand, was fully justified in raising his partner's bid of three to four despite the singleton in the trump suit.
(4) A daring bid, designed as a lead director if West played the contract; otherwise South would have taken the chance on bidding six clubs, in view of his partner's free Demand bid and being willing for his partner to bid six diamonds if that were necessary. In this bid there was also the element of psychology, as Mr. Goren knew that West, after his partner had raised the spade bid, would never permit him to play it anyhow.
(5) As anticipated.
(6) With South's bid, this Double is, of course, self-explanatory.

In the play, due to South's daring and unconventional bid, the contract was set 3 tricks for a loss of 1,000 points. North opened a heart and thus South was enabled to cash all three of his trumps by ruffing.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ — ♡ K Q J 6 3 ◇ K Q J 10 8 4 ♣ J 8
♠ Q 10 7 4 ♡ 9 5 4 ◇ 5 3 ♣ A Q 6 5	W E S	♠ A K 9 3 2 ♡ 10 7 2 ◇ A 2 ♣ 10 3 2
	♠ J 8 6 5 ♡ A 8 ◇ 9 7 6 ♣ K 9 7 4

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 9:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m. and 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Astrological influences on September 5 will be of a very negative nature and it would be useless to seek a "Sign in the Heavens" for there will be few to be seen. Artists and writers will put forth very poor work, and would do well to retire to the background, until their inspirations come. Meddlers will upset some pet plan.

The child born on this September 5 will have that self-assurance which will lead it on to adventure, and give it sufficient spunk to stand on its own legs at a very early age. It will have a severe attack of that adolescent disease called "know-it-all-itis," but will completely recover, without abnormal remedies. It will have a very sound mind.

If born on September 5, you will be a fighter all your life, and will go after the things you want. You are a man or woman who can stick to your guns, and persist in your aim until your desired achievement is accomplished. The world may call you "lucky," but it would be more correct to call you "plucky," for yours are no chance successes. They are the product of your own grit and hard work. You will have your "flops," for you are ambitious, and every now and then take on too much. It is to your credit, however, that you can step down as gracefully as you can step up.

Good-by to work would be good-by to contentment for you. It is easier for you to make opportunities for labor than to make opportunities for leisure. It would not be easy for you to fill the role of a "gilded exquisite," whether you can pay the bills or not. There is little of the snob and nothing of the prig about you. You are friendly, and sociable in an informal way.

Your horoscope favors uncommon pursuits, and many September 5 people have gone into pioneer businesses with success. You should avoid business partnerships, if possible. A late or second marriage is indicated.

Successful people born on September 5:

Joseph Bucklin Bishop, writer.
Cornelius Vanderbilt, capitalist.
Myron W. Whitney, singer.
Edward H. House, author and journalist.
Amy M. Cheney Beach, composer.
John G. Carlisle, statesman.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

FISH AT LOW COST.

(Bureau of Fisheries.)

Like other animal foods, fish is rich in protein. It is rich also in minerals, especially in phosphorus. Salt water fish and shellfish are rich in iodine, which is another substance required by the human body. In regions where the soil, and especially the drinking water, and vegetables grown in that soil, are poor in iodine, the iodine content of salt water fish is important.

According to nutritionists of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, some kinds of fish, notably cod, salmon, haddock and sea herring, have been found to be good sources of vitamins A and D. It is well to use the oil in a can of salmon for sauce or in salad dressing, if possible, to obtain the full vitamin value.

Because of its high food value, and comparatively little waste, it pays to watch the market for bargains in fish, suggests the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, in commenting on ways of getting the most for the family food dollar.

Fresh fish bargains are likely to be a matter of locality and season. For example, the shad come up the Atlantic coastal rivers in the spring; Atlantic salmon are caught in New England rivers in early spring and summer. At the same time the boats and nets are out for lake trout in the Great Lakes, for mackerel along the Middle Atlantic Coast, and for Pacific salmon on the West Coast. Other fish are most plentiful in the fall or winter.

Some of the best bargains in fishery products, however, are all-year fish from both fresh and salt water that are shipped, fresh, or fresh-frozen, to different parts of the country. Fresh haddock, mackerel, halibut, salmon, fresh cod, and various other fishes from the Atlantic and Pacific are frozen and shipped to many distant markets, as well as lake herring and blue and yellow pike from the lakes. Frozen fish, it should be remembered, are fresh fish.

Canned sardines, canned pink salmon, kippered herring, salt cod, cod flakes, canned herring roe and other canned and cured fish are all good and nutritious, and usually low in price.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Vere Borea, the Italian couturiere who has recently made such a stir in Paris, brought an odd striped weave from her own Italian Alps—and had the French manufacturers copy it into a new cloth. The frock illustrated is for dressy sports, and the gilet is buttoned onto it by wooden buttons. (Seen on Fifth avenue.)

PERSONALITY, charm, "it," or whatever "it's" called these days depends on the enhancing of our best features, or so say the leading "femme" experts of the day. They say, for instance, that certain colors definitely increase, and some colors definitely decrease a woman's loveliness, and from personal experience we know it's so. But now, they are going even further, and saying that certain perfumes increase or decrease a woman's charm just the same as a color, a frock or a coat!

At least one new fall dress you absolutely must have! Now, you can take your choice of buying one—some of the sales are fine, but you have to be most a'fully careful that what you are buying is a sale, and not just a cheap dress in the first place; or you can have one made, and know what you are getting in the way of material and in the way of dressmaking, if you have a good dressmaker. Or make it yourself—this fall dress that you simply must have, hard times notwithstanding.

One dress can go a long ways, too—I have designed one for you that goes a longer ways than you can imagine—it just about goes around the clock, really! It is of coat dress lines, but you need not have it made as a coat dress if you prefer to close the skirt. And the upper part is so designed that it can be worn four different and distinctive ways—making four dresses, each one chic and stylish. Don't you think you had better at least investigate? Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, then, and see how you would like this Dare design for your new fall dress.

• • • •

Even the big couturieres are making designs that can be worn a couple of ways! The dress I sketched for you today, for instance, has a red gilet that buttons on with wooden buttons—but if the gilet is not worn at all, the buttons simply trim the dress, and there you have a chic sports dress just the same.

The material was interesting—an Italian weave in a red stripe, brought by the designer of the gown from Italy, and copied, the cloth, I mean, in France. Then the dress itself was bought and displayed on Fifth avenue in New York—and now you have it sketched for your approval. Like it?

• • • •

Bag buttons or fastenings are very important this season. You have a buckle or fastening of some sort that is the last word in colorful jewelry—and it is on your dark colored bag, which sets it off most strikingly. The bag fastening that I sketched in the corner—of jet, jade, and crystal, for instance. With a jeweled piece like this in the ensemble, we don't have to make much of a fuss about other jewelry, do we?

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

EPIDEMIC BOILS.

THERE is no disease that superintendents and nurses in baby hospitals dread more than impetigo. Those who are disposed to object will cool down when they know that the impetigo referred to is epidemics of boils in babies. This disease is contagious—not as much so as measles, but on a par with, say, scarlet fever. The measles microbe is in the blood and it causes fever and results in pneumonia in many cases.

The impetigo microbe is in the skin and the blood and lungs usually escape, but the skin is full of nerves and the pain and shock is very great. A case of measles is quickly ended and, if pneumonia is avoided, recovery is to be expected. Impetigo drags on and wears the child down. Recovery is to be expected, but there are a fair number of fatalities, especially when we add those usually charged against complications.

In the treatment of impetigo we are prone to make certain mistakes. The microbe causing it is generally a staphylococcus, though a few cases are said to be due to chain cocci and, possibly some are due to other organisms. The infecting microbe is right near the surface and, shortly after it has broken through, is flourishing on the skin as well as in it. It soils the clothing, as well as the skin, and wash water, soap and towels are badly infested.

The first mistake we make is in not recognizing the infectiousness of impetigo. Related to that is our neglect of the vehicles by which it is spread. These are flies, towels, cloths, clothes, wash basins, soap, spoons, cups, plates, and saucers. We force our milkman to make milk safe when it comes to typhoid, but we neglect the homely channels by which impetigo is spread.

When it come sto treatment, our mistake is in the opposite direction. We overtreat the eruption. The common remedy is ammoniated ointment. This is a fine ointment. If the family medicine chest is to contain a jar of one salve to be used for skin eruptions as they come along, this is probably the best one for the purpose. Most skin eruptions are as sluggish as a snake in cold weather. They need to be kicked a good deal. Ammoniated mercury ointment is a kicker.

Boils in babies are not in need of being kicked. The microbes are on the skin. They get in through the pores, the openings of sweat and grease glands, and down hair shafts as well as through rubbed and scratched areas. Cleanliness is first in importance. There are good bacteria killing soaps now available and probably no other microbe killer need be used. Alcohol sponging is sometimes used. It does not take the place of bathing with soap and water.

As a rule it is best to protect the boils as much as possible and leave them to heal. If any dusting powders or salves are used they should be soothing rather than stimulating. Tanning is of service but it must be done cautiously. If redness is produced exposure to light does more harm than good.

REVERSE PERISTALSIS.

B. H. writes: Will you please explain peristalsis and reverse peristalsis? What causes the latter?

REPLY.

Peristalsis is the wormlike movement in the digestive tract which keeps the food moving along as it is digested and absorbed. If it reverses and moves the food in the opposite direction the act is called reverse peristalsis. Vomiting, nausea, some belching is the result of reverse peristalsis. Among the causes of this trouble are adhesions, obstructions, constrictions, constipation, cancer, ulcer and gallstones. There are others.

Spread of Government Decried by Dr. Butler

Southampton, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, asserted today that only by proper conduct and prevention of public exploitation can the balance between government and liberty be maintained.

"One can not have his cake and eat it, too," he said in an address at the Parish Art Museum here. "If government is to be restricted to the sphere originally marked out for it by the framers of our Constitution, then we must so conduct ourselves that there is no temptation for government to increase its area of jurisdiction."

GOATS AND THE JITTERS.

("Goats with the jitters have been cured by a new hormone in experiments conducted by a University of Buffalo professor in co-operation with Cornell."—News item.)

LET'S get to the bottom of this:

Q. Professor, how do you know when a goat has the jitters?

A. You observe the goat carefully. If he acts in a way no goat ordinarily acts it has the jitters.

Q. When a goat acts as no goat ought to act, mightn't it indicate nothing more than that it is an unusual goat?

A. There are more definite symptoms.

Q. What are they?

A. A goat with a real case of jitters shows marked agitation. It is jumpy and irritable. It will not eat its tomato cans without sugar and cream. It runs around in circles, trying to step on its own beard. In the more acute cases jittery goats will refuse to eat uncooked cuffs and will refuse any rubber heels that are low in vitamin or caloric value.

* * * *

Q. Why should there be any concern over a goat with the jitters? What difference does it make?

A. It may make no difference to you or me, but it makes a great difference to the goat.

* * * *

Q. How do you give this newly discovered hormone to a goat?

A. It depends on the goat.

Q. I am speaking of a receptive goat.

A. We put it in its cereal at breakfast.

Q. Do you mean to tell me that a goat eats cereal for breakfast?

A. A goat with the jitters is apt to do anything. We had a goat at Cornell last year that had them so bad it wouldn't touch breakfast without melon and marmalade.

Q. Why bother to cure such a goat?

A. You wouldn't want a lot of goats going around the country demanding melon and marmalade, would you?

Q. I wouldn't care for goats even if they didn't. But let us get back to the cross-examination. After a goat has taken this new hormone what happens?

A. In a very short time the goat is free from the jitters.

Q. Is he any happier?

A. That depends on the goat.

Q. ONE more question, professor. At a time like this, when the United States has so many troubles, why is it at all important to cure goats of jitters?

A. It's like this: The American people have the jitters, too.

Q. Well, what of it?

A. We want to be able to distinguish the goats from the people!

Roosting Pigeons Cause Town's Time to Wabble

Elkader, Iowa, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Two of Elkader's pigeons, whose roosting was on a too well regulated schedule, are hunting a new perch and the town clock is now keeping good time.

The village fathers had been puzzled as to why the clock would gain time the first half of each hour and lose time the second half. They found that the pigeons would hop onto the clock's big hand when it was about ten minutes after the hour. Their weight speeded up the machinery and the clock gained time until the hand pointed downward at such an angle that they lost their perch.

The birds would return when the hand neared the last quarter hour and ride upward for several minutes, causing the clock to run slower.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Thompson trophy race, the free-for-all speed classic that will feature the final day of the national air races now running in Cleveland, will be broadcast by Charles E. ("Casey") Jones, famous speed pilot, over WMAL at 5 o'clock today.

The WEAF-WTAM network of the N. B. C. will carry an account of the spectacular air race at approximately the same hour.

Broadcasts direct from the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, L. I., the scene of the men's national tennis championship tournament, will be heard over WMAL at 3:45 p. m. and over WRC at 4:30 p. m.

Other variations from the regular routine today will include addresses by William Green and Frank Morrison, president and secretary of the American Federation of Labor, who will address N. B. C. networks in special Labor Day programs. "An Outline of Labor's Plans and Policies" will be the subject of President Green's address, which will be delivered before a Labor Day meeting at West View Park, Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Morrison's subject will be "The Unemployment Situation and the Five-Day Week."

Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, will talk about "Labor and Our Responsibility" during the regular National Radio Forum (WRC, 8 p. m.).

A MEDLEY of favorite Berlin melodies, dating back to 1921, when Alexander's Ragtime Band was the hit of the day, will be featured by Harry Horlick and the A. & P. Gypsies (WRC, 8 o'clock) tonight.

The familiar "Are you listenin'?" again will be heard over WMAL when Tony Wons returns with his scrapbook philosophy this morning, after a vacation of several months. Tony's broadcasts will be resumed according to his former schedule—every morning except Sunday at 8:30 o'clock.

Wons spent his vacation at his cabin, situated deep in the woods at Eagle River, Wis. During a week's trip to northern Minnesota, Tony was initiated into the Chippewa Tribe, receiving the name of "Meshkaegegit," meaning "Sending big voice over the air."

Two former stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Viola Philo, contralto, and Clarence Whitehill, barytone, will be guest soloists on the Parade of the States program, dedicated to Iowa, over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The orchestra, conducted by Erno Rapee, will feature a medley of the State's most popular songs.

SAMMY BROWN, popular local announcer and crooner, is back from a month's vacation in Savannah. He'll make his first appearance in several weeks at WMAL at 10:45 o'clock this morning.

WMAL is presenting a new interpreter of Texas cowboy songs in Tennent (Tex) Norton, at 6:45 p. m. today.

"Malaguena," the tone poem by Moszkowski, and Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltz, will be among the popular classics in the broadcast of the Musical Album over WMAL at 8:30 o'clock tonight. With Andrew Kostelanetz conducting, the orchestra will offer also Paderewski's minuet and Delibes' gay "Pizzicato" polka. Delia Baker, soprano, will sing "Through the Years" and Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me."

Two Records Are Set By Italy's Wheat Crop

Rome, Sept 4 (A.P.).—Italy's wheat crop was officially estimated today at 265,000,000 bushels on 12,200,000 acres.

The average acre production, therefore was 21.7 bushels, assertedly an Italian record both as to crop and acre yield. It was said rust had prevented the achievement of Premier Mussolini's goal of making Italy produce what she consumes, namely about 300,000,000 bushels.

NATS WIN FROM MACKS, 8-6, IN RAIN BEFORE 8,000

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

FOR plain and fancy dilatory tactics, the Athletics won the American League pennant yesterday when they tried everything but hauling the sun down out of the heavens in an effort to delay the game until rain could wipe out the Nats' three-run lead in the fourth and fifth innings.

Mule Haas was the chief offender, but he had the ready assistance of his teammates in the matter. Haas walked from the bench to the batter's box with the haste of a rheumatic snail, knocked the mud out of his spikes twice en route, knocked the mud out again as he took his stance and then decided that both shoe laces were loose enough to require his attention for a full half minute.

By this time, the fans were in the mood for a lynching and unloosed their wrath upon both Haas and Umpire Geisel for permitting such tactics, but eventually Haas walked and the side was retired.

Outfielders Take Long Workout.

Then, taking his place in the field, Haas made the first putout of the last half of the fourth, tossed the ball to Miller in deep right, Miller tossed it to Simmons in deep left, and it appeared that both rain and darkness would overtake the proceedings ere the ball got back to the infield, but the by-play, like all else, had to come to an end.

This department finds it difficult to censure Haas or the A's for their attempts to delay proceedings. That's big league baseball as played by the best brains of the game and has averted many a defeat. It is significant, too, that after the fifth, with a legal game played and the Nats in front, the Washington players displayed no great hurry in their play in the chance that rain might fall again and wipe out every hope of the Macks getting back into the ball game.

McAfee's Slow Stuff Baffles Foxx.

The game presented Bill McAfee with his fifth straight victory against no defeats in a Washington uniforms and except for a lapse in the eighth, he pitched well enough to deserve it.

McAfee's performance against Jimmy Foxx in the fourth was a masterpiece of slow-ball pitching. Twice he forced Foxx to swing futilely at balls that drifted over the plate with the speed of a toy balloon against a head wind, finally disposing of the home run leader on a weak pop to Bluege.

His fast ball was much in evidence, too, and he ended the game with a flourish by striking out both Pinch Hitter Dib Williams and Max Bishop on six straight pitches after throwing three balls to Williams. The way McAfee is pitching, he will be no drawback in any plans the Nats may have for 1933.

One Large Demerit For Conni Mack.

The strange spectacle of Jimmy Foxx bunting with two men on base and three runs needed to tie the score was offered the fans in the sixth inning to their amazement and delight.

If Foxx bunted under orders, this department is constrained to give Manager Connie Mack one large demerit for his strategy. If there was one among his henchmen who was best suited to deliver the blow that would tie the game, it was Foxx, yet his home run slugger par excellence bunted.

True it was that McNair was next up with the bases full and McNair a home run hitter of parts, too, but McNair must not be mentioned in the same breath as Foxx in the home run category. The Athletics' golden opportunity went by the boards.

Dutra Continues Subpar Golf to Win P. G. A. Title, Defeating Walsh, 4 and 3

Chicago Star Beaten After Even Match in Morning Play.

Coast Pro Shatters Par by 19 Strokes for Tournament.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Olin Dutra, the towering senor from Santa Monica, Calif., scaled the national professional golf throne at Keller today on the tide of probably the most remarkable records in the ancient game's history.

Rushing along the par-bursting trail he started at historic Lido, where his war clubs won the metropolitan open, the Pacific Coast star trimmed the surprising Frank Walsh, of Chicago, with a brilliant finish to win his third title in as many starts, 4 and 3.

Walsh fought back with perfect golf, but just simply couldn't match the irresistible rush of the new champion, who gained an even break on the morning round by shooting one under par and then blazed in with a three under par afternoon finish to win.

Dutra Has Brilliant Record.

As Dutra strolled to the clubhouse to receive his crown, the record books showed he had conquered perfect figures by 19 holes in his full six-day 196-hole campaign of the big professional championship show, over what every contestant said was played on some of the trickiest greens in the country.

In his stirring three-week campaign, which netted him the metropolitan and North Shore, Chicago, open titles and the professional crown, Dutra played exactly 304 holes in 31 shots under par. If there is an equal of that record, President Charles Hall of the Professional Golfers Association of America would like to hear about it.

Today's match was a sizzler from the first tee shot until the thirtieth green, where Walsh began hitting wild tee shots and the big Castilian drew away to a three-hole lead.

Walsh Puts Up Fine Battle.

Walsh, regarded as one of the rankest outsiders to reach the finals in several years, matched Dutra shot for shot, birdie for birdie, outdrove him most of the way except when a big wind fought back against them, and repeatedly smacked iron shots that would have routed most any campaigner. Three times, Dutra bagged a birdie on the 33-hole jaunt and as many times did Walsh match them.

Dutra, in his victory today, became the first medalist in the history of the tournament to win the championship along with some of the greatest shotmakers of professional golf in the wave of upsets that shook the tournament and saw seven overtime matches.

Cubs Blank Cards; Warneke Wins 20

Chicago Hurler Gives Only 3 Hits to Triumph by 3-0 Margin.

Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Lon Warneke won his twentieth victory of the season this afternoon as he shut out the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 0, and ended the Chicago Cubs' home stay with the eighteenth win in twenty games. Warneke allowed only three hits, all singles, and never did the champions seriously threaten to score.

All the Chicago scores came in the fourth inning when Manager Grimm led the attack on Sylvester Johnson. The runs were unearned, coming, as they did, after an error by Frisch. With one out, Cuyler was safe when Frankie fumbled his grounder. Stephenson singled to right and Cuyler romped to third. After Moore had fanned for the second out, Grimm came through with a healthy double to deep center, scoring Cuyler and Stephenson. The manager scored the last run when Martinett singled.

Aside from this inning, the Cubs had almost as much trouble with Johnson as the Cards did with Warneke.

Jimmy Wilson got two of the three Card hits. His first came in the third inning, and again in the eighth he singled. The other safety was by Watkins in the fourth. The only walk Warneke handed out was to C. Wilson, the first batter he faced. It was Warneke's fourth shutout of the season.

Browns and White Sox Split in Double-Header

St. Louis, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Fadian Kowalik, White Sox rookie, was unable to hold the Browns in the first game of today's double-header, St. Louis winning 7 to 5, but Paul Gregory allowed only six safe blows in the aftermath, and Chicago won, 5 to 1.

Kowalik was driven from the mound in the seventh inning of the first game, and Gallivan and Chamberlin finished. Bumps Hadley, who was knocked out in first inning of yesterday's game, went the route for St. Louis. Goose Goslin and Jim Levey hit homers for the Browns.

Sullivan led the Sox attack in the second game, a home run and getting four singles in five times up.

VINES PLAYS IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Champion to Oppose Unknown; Cochet Faces Hess.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The field cut to an even 64, competition in the national tennis championships becomes much tougher tomorrow as second round play gets under way.

Yesterday's 28 opening matches failed to produce a single upset and only a scattered few extra-set battles, but there may be a different story to tell tomorrow.

Ellsworth Vines, defending champion, who drew a first round bye, makes his first appearance against the unknown, Charles Marks, in a second round match, but some of the other favorites are faced with formidable opposition.

Henri Cochet, of France, favored with Vines to reach the final round, must tackle the battling Texan, Jake Hess, of Fort Worth, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, anticipates no picnic with Julius Seligson, of New York, former intercollegiate champion. Jiro Satoh, highly regarded Japanese, draws Lester Stoefen for his first opponent and the Californian will have plenty of supporters.

Among the other favorites who drew first round byes, George Lott will play Humberto Costa, of Brazil; Marcel Bernard, of France, will tackle Lawrence Kurzrok, of New York; Keith Gledhill will meet Morris Lawrence, Fred Perry will meet the former Columbia star, Jerry Lang; Frank Shields will face Donald Hawley, John Van Ryn will play William McM. Martin, jr., and J. S. Olliff, of England, will encounter Sidney Berger, of New York.

Frankie Parker, the Milwaukee youngster, who eliminated Sadakazu Onda so impressively yesterday, draws Dick Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., as his next opponent, and Henry Austin, whose flannel "shorts" created more excitement than did his easy victory over Cecil Metz, of Memphis, will play Berkeley Bell, brilliant but erratic New Yorker.

Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines star, faces Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, and Cliff Sutter, New Orleans youth, who is in the midst of his most successful season, plays Carl Fischer, of Woodbury, N. J.

RAIN DELAYS RACE.

Detroit, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A heavy rain an hour before starting time today forced a postponement of a 100-mile automobile race, the last A. A. A.-sponsored event of the season. The race will be run next Saturday at the State Fair Grounds.

Delphine V, Due to Compete Here, Sets Record for Gold Cup Boats

DETROIT, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Horace E. Dodge, at the wheel of Delphine V, one of the boats with which he will compete in the President's Cup race at Washington, D. C., bettered all official times for gold cup boats in an exhibition run that featured today's program of the Harmsworth regatta on the Detroit River, but his achievement probably will not be recorded.

He had an average speed of 59.107 miles an hour for six runs over the five-statute-mile course. The gold cup record is 59 miles an hour. But officials said stake boats were not on the course and that changes had been made to the FUSSELL-YOUNG tied the Georgetown A. C. for the second half honors in the junior division of the Capital City League by pounding the Southwest Merchants into submission on the South Ellipse yesterday. The final score was 19-4. The Merchants later forfeited to Mount Rainier, failing to report back on the field after time had been called during a brief shower.

Artie Nock ran the gamet of base hits to lead Fussell-Young to victory. He hit safely on each of six appearances at the piste, driving out three singles, a double, triple, and home-run. Dick Cullen, Paul Clements, Harry Bassin and Johnny Daly were others who figured prominently in the 25-hit assault on DeSchard and McClay.

Kaplan Starts On Mound.

Dave Kaplan started on the mound for the eventual winners and granted only six hits in as many innings before retiring in favor of Greiner, who held his opponents hitless in the last three innings of the fray.

Fussell-Young will meet Georgetown in a single game to decide the second half championship. Should the former win the two teams will then play a three-game series for the Capital City League title, tantamount to the city championship. Georgetown, however, can clinch the laurels by winning the play-off as it triumphed in the first series.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

AT THE POST

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, SEPT. 4.

DEAR AL:

I was in favor of letting the Marlboro meeting run until Christmas but all good things have an ending and it was a happy one for us. Pardon me for smearing it on a bit, Al, but those five winners Saturday (even if Washout was disqualified) don't move me to any tears. And what did I tell you about Pat Remillard. Four out of the first five winners after I warned you his mounts were the best bets. I'm letting you have it, boy, because I don't know when I'll have the chance again. The boss has shipped me here but I'll be poppin' back East when the big time Maryland swing opens at the Graw.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—BIANOZ'S last was hardly true. This baby has a world of speed and may use it to graduate from the maiden class. Lewis is likely to ride. SIMON has the Whitney stamp and is a place possibility. SWINHAVEN drops down and can show here.

SECOND RACE—MAID OF HONOR gets in this race with only 100 pounds and is a lot better than recent form shows. Looks like she will have HAMILTON to beat although LASALLE may upset the pair of them.

THIRD RACE—TIMOROUS needs only to run to one of those good races to take care of these juveniles. HELEN BAB won three times at Dade Park and is dangerous. PRINTEMPS is better than that last effort.

FOURTH RACE—I'm sticking to BROWN WISDOM. This one had trouble the last time according to the chart makers and this may be a different story. KIBITZER surprised recently and packs a world of speed. PANCHO LOPEZ to take care of the others.

FIFTH RACE—BROAD MEADOWS can not be shoved off the top of this heap. Needs only the kind of ride Jimmy Smith is capable of. LITTLE AMERICA may beat VISHNU for the place award.

SIXTH RACE—GALLANT SIR and CHARLEIGH appear the best of this group. The former upset the dope last out while the latter was never more speedy. If there is a surprise I look for CATHOP to be the medium.

SEVENTH RACE—LIMBUS drops 7 pounds and seems to have the edge over DEEMSTER and WHITE LEGS, the leading contenders. ULTRAMARINE might easily be placed higher but seems to run hot and cold.

EIGHTH RACE—FLYING is a right sharp animal at present. This one may reward at sizable figures. BROWN BRUTUS and BEN BLAIR for the rest.

Majestics Routed By Hiser All-Stars

Brandt, on Hill First Time This Season, Gets 13-to-0 Win.

With George Brandt cast in the star role, Hiser's All-Stars had little difficulty in turning back Majestic Radio yesterday, winning a 13-0 victory in a game abbreviated by rain. The second game of a scheduled double-header was postponed because of rain.

The shut-out victory marked Brandt's first start on the mound this season. He held his opponents to five widely scattered hits. At bat he drove out three hits, two of them triples, both coming in the second inning when the victors scored nine runs. E. Hiser and Stevens also played well for the All-Stars.

Today the Rockville A. A. will invade Riverdale Park for a tussle with the Hisermen starting at 3 o'clock.

PIXLEE PUTS SQUAD OF 51 TO WORK

G. W. Grid Coach to Group Players at Camp Letts.

Special to The Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 4.—Fifty-one candidates for the George Washington University varsity football team went through their initial drill of the season here today under the watchful and approving eye of Head Coach Jim Pixlee and his staff of assistants. The first workout was divided into morning and afternoon sessions. Overcast skies and a brisk wind that whipped over the field from the bay sending the mercury down, led Pixlee to cancel plans for staging the drill at sunrise to avoid the heat.

In the morning the entire squad spent a lengthy period brushing up on their calisthenics. The coach was particularly pleased with the physical condition of his men and this position of the training program apparently will be an insignificant one. A lecture and demonstration on the fundamentals of the game closed the morning practice.

Seventeen veterans from last season's squad donned full football regalia in the afternoon and taking up where they left off at the close of the season, ran through signals and formations. This radical departure from orthodox preseason training methods is part of Pixlee's scheme to have the team at the top of its form for the earlier games on the schedule, the most difficult the Colonials have ever faced.

Players to Be Divided Into Groups.

Starting today the camp will be divided into three squads. The first will be the Reds, veteran holdovers from last year; the second will be the Yellows, comprised of 1931 scrubs and this year's sophomores; and the third will be the Blues, or Freshmen, seventeen of whom are in camp. Players on the first two squads will be shifted from the Yellows to the Reds, or vice versa, as their work warrants. This plan, it is believed, will spur the men on to greater efforts in their aim to win a berth on the Red squad.

The coaching staff will be augmented by the addition of Bill Meyers, who will report today. Those already here, in addition to Pixlee, are Len Walsh, Jean Sexton, Max Farrington, Barney Hale and John Lee. Hale, who received his sheepskin last June at George Washington, will assist Farrington with the Freshmen. Lee is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, where he was an all-Big Six tackle in 1930.

Another arrival today will be Boyd Hickman, husky guard, who remained in Washington to wind up some business affairs for his employer. Fred Mulvey, regular end last season, is the only other player not in training. He is ill with intestinal influenza and will be out of action for an indefinite period.

C. U. and Maryland Grid Squads to Report Today

Labor Day will be all that the name implies for members of the Catholic and Maryland University squads who have been ordered to report for preliminary training today. Georgetown's Tom Mills will not call out his candidates for tomorrow. The entire trio will train in their own backyards this season, the depression and ballyhoo against "high-pressure" football having put the damper on training camps.

Semifinals Reached In Hot Springs Golf

Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, and his nephew, George Howard Ingalls, of Woodmere, Long Island, played fine golf today to reach the semifinals in the Fair Acre Challenge Cup golf championship, along with William M. Rogers, of the Berkshire Hills (Mass.) Country Club, the medalist, and Dr. Thomas H. Scales, of the Hermitage Club, Richmond.

Fay Ingalls defeated Allan M. Hirsh, jr., of Montclair, N. J. 2 and 1, while George Howard Ingalls was defeating Thomas H. Somerville, of the Farmington (Va.) Country Club, 1 up. Dr. Scales defeated R. F. Loving, of the Farmington Country Club, 2 and 1, and Rogers defeated Hugh Leach, of the Cincinnati Country Club, 2 up.

Dr. Scales and Fay Ingalls will oppose in the semifinals tomorrow, while George Ingalls takes on Rogers.

First round summaries—Rogers defeated W. F. Souder, Charlottesville, 4 and 3; Leach defeated E. H. Bobbitt, Hot Springs, 1 up, 20 holes; Somerville defeated Daniel R. Topping, Greenwich, Conn., Country Club, Pittsburgh, 2 up; Dr. Scales defeated C. F. Moran, Farmington Country Club, 3 and 2; Loving defeated E. A. Bailey, Covington, Va., Country Club, 3 and 1; Fay Ingalls defeated J. C. Carpenter, Clifton Forge Country Club, 4 and 2; Hirsh defeated Wallace Hodgson, Greenwich, Conn., Country Club, 3 and 2.

Homer Beats Frenchs In Front Royal Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., Sept. 4.—The Front Royal All Stars defeated the French Athletic Club, of Washington, D. C., in the first game of the holiday series here today by the score of 5 to 4. Weaver held the visitors to seven hits, two of which were home runs by Noone and Stahl. The Stars collected ten hits off Lyons and Colliflower, including home runs by Casarotti and Jewett. The French held a 4-to-1 lead until the seventh inning, when a three-run rally featured by Casarotti's homer and doubles by Lyle McFall and Weaver tied the score. Jewett's eight-inning homer off Colliflower proved to be the winning run. Weaver and Lyle McFall led the Stars at bat, while Stahl was the only visitor to secure more than one hit.

Good Army Replacements For Lost Stars of Gridiron

Stecker to Be Missed in Back Field and Carver at Quarter, But Main Worries Are Over Tackle Talent.

(This is the first of a series on the football prospects of the Nation's major college elevens.)

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The golden helmets are gleaming again on the plains of West Point. Maj. Ralph I. Sasse is toiling, arguing, pleading, and in the broiling sun is rising another fine Army eleven.

Year after year the proud nucleus of Uncle Sam's future warriors on land and in the air chisel out scant hours from the rigors of military drill, study and discipline, to mold football teams that face the Nation's best.

They practice under the handicap of a bare hour or so of available time a day, travel in short takes with military doctrines under their arms. Yet year after year they come up with their share of big-time victories and upsets of recompense for the usual defeat or two of a season.

Army Backfield Loses Stecker.

Army has another of just that type team this fall. Into the Army proper has gone galloping Ray Stecker, the powerful back who led the Cadets two two postseason victories over Navy before the breach was healed officially this year. He is Coach Sasse's major back field loss, sparkplug in an attack that downed Notre Dame in surprising 12-to-0 fashion last fall; tied Yale, 6-to-6; lost to Harvard by a bare point, 14 to 13, and scrambled a host of minor opposition before bowing to Pittsburgh, 26 to 0.

But Army has a wealth of backs left. Two-year veterans are Tom Kilday, Ken Fields, Bill Frentzell, Ed Herb, Hank Sebastian and Joe MacWilliams.

Sasse will miss the graduated Rosy Carver at quarter, but he has two youngsters who shone last season, Travis Brown and Paul Johnson, and at least one new comer from the plebe squad, big Bucky Buckler, who threatens to crash the first strong back field.

Army lost veteran linemen in Capt. Jack Price, a great tackle; Ed Saurez, the other tackle; Harley Trice, a guard, and Aaron Lazar at center, but only the tackle berths worry Maj. Sasse. Last year's first string ends, Pete Jablonsky and Dick King, two reserve tackles; Jack Armstrong and "Abe" Lincoln, and his regular center, Roy Evans, are back. Capt. Milt Summerfelt fills one guard, with a host of big fellows fighting for the other place.

Navy Game Climaxes Hard Schedule.

Army tackles a ten-game schedule, climaxed by the renewed offensive with Navy in Philadelphia, December 3. The schedule:

October 1, Furman, South Carolina; October 8, Carleton College, Minnesota; October 15, Pittsburgh; October 22, Yale, at New Haven; October 29, William and Mary; Novembed 5, Harvard, at Cambridge; November 12, North Dakota State College; November 19, West Virginia Wesleyan; November 26, Notre Dame, at New York; December 3, Navy, at Philadelphia.

Albemarle Racing Group Established

New Organization Conducts Annual Meeting at Charlottesville.

Establishment of the Albemarle Racing Association with headquarters at Charlottesville, Va., assures stronger support and a promising future to steeplechasing there, and indicates that Virginia sportsmen, following an example set by the formation of the Virginia Gold Cup Association at Warrenton three years ago, are adopting the precedent of organizers of the Maryland Hunt Cup in 1894, the Brookline Racing Association of Massachusetts and other similar amateur turf bodies in New York and Maryland. Many cross-country meetings today require separate organizations and additional support to sustain them.

The Albemarle Racing Association hereafter will conduct the local hunt meeting, instituted in 1927 by the Albemarle County Hunt and later supported as a joint-meeting by also the Farmington and Keswick Hunt Clubs. This annual race meeting over the Farmington Country Club steeplechase course near Charlottesville will be held this year on Saturday, October, 29, under the auspices of the new association. Jurisdiction over the races will remain with the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association.

Officers elected by the Albemarle Association are: Mr. William B. Bogert, of Keswick, president; Messrs. E. D. Tayloe, of Shadwell; P. J. Faulconer, of Charlottesville, and J. Churchill Newcomb, of Greenwood, vice presidents; Mr. W. Alonzo Rinehart, of Charlottesville, secretary-treasurer, and a board of governors composed of these officers and also Messrs. Charles A. Stone and George L. Maxwell, of New York City and Albemarle County; R. A. VanClief, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Esmont, Va.; W. H. Langhorne, of Warren; James Gordon Smith, of Greenwood; Horatio L. Small, of Esmont; and D. W. D. Haden and Dr. J. P. Jones, of Charlottesville. Officers of the four county hunts—the Green Mountain, founded in 1931; the Farmington, founded in 1928; the Keswick, founded in 1896, and the Albemarle County, founded in 1854, are thus represented on the board.

Four D. C. School Squads Start Grid Drills Tomorrow

Central, Eastern, Western and Gonzaga Candidates Report to Coaches; Tech Drilling at Maryland U. Stadium.

FOOTBALL squads of four District high schools will begin actual preparation for the approaching campaign tomorrow. Hap. Hardell is hard at work drilling fundamentals into the Tech gridders who are at Maryland University for a brief training period.

Coaches of Central, Eastern, Western and Gonzaga will put their charges through their paces for the first time today. Calisthenics and instructions in the finer points of play will consume a large portion of the time for the entire quartet.

Bert Coggins, Central coach, plans to equip all candidates for the team today, an indication that the Mount Pleasant aggregation will get down to hard work as soon as possible. Eastern's Charley Guyon, returning to the gridiron after a year's leave of absence, must work from the ground up. Dan Ahern, at Western, is blessed with an abundance of seasoned material that may make the year a bright one in the annals of the school from over the creek.

At Gonzaga, Orrell Mitchell has prospects for a fair eleven, which, with a few huskies and Mitchell's ability, may be improved to a rating on par with recent Purple teams.

LISTS CLOSE TONIGHT FOR AMATEUR

Pitt Defends District Golf Title, Starting on Wednesday.

WASHINGTON'S amateur golf experts will attempt to unlimber their best shots Wednesday and Thursday over the sporty Chevy Chase course in the battle to decide who will wear the District crown for 1932.

Practically every course under the jurisdiction of the District of Columbia Golf Association is expected to send its outstanding players into the two-day conflict of 72 holes. Entries will close tonight.

Harry Pitt Defending Title.

The defending champion is Harry Pitt, of Manor, who paced a crack field last year at Burning Tree in hanging up a grand total of 302. Roger Peacock, of Indian Spring, emerged second.

This week's event probably will find a small but strong field participating, but the fact that nine of the entries will vie in the national amateur at Five Farms in Baltimore opening September 12, bids fair to add dignity and interest to the tournament.

Tuesday Chevy Chase will be thrown open to entrants for practice rounds. Most of the players, however, are pretty well acquainted with the layout, having toured it before and during the Middle Atlantic trials. All entries should be sent to Dr. W. C. Barr, secretary of the District of Columbia Golf Association, at the Chevy Chase Club.

The tournament is restricted to golfers with handicaps of fourteen or less. The entry fee is $3.

Good Field Expected To Compete.

Among those expected to play are Harry Pitt, Maurice Nee, Dermot Nee, E. J. Carver, J. W. Bonnette, John C. Shorey, Burks Edwards and Billy Dettweiler, of Manor; C. Ashmead Fuller, Fred Hitz and McCook Dunlop, of Chevy Chase; Roland Mackenzie, Miller Stevinson, Johnny Brawner, C. B. Hatch, Tom Bones and Everett Eynon, of Columbia; Parker Nolan, Luther Stewart, Bill Jones, H. C. Dagley, Jack McCarron, F. X. Emmett, W. R. Stone and Franklin Parks, of Congressional; Capt. James Nolestein, Capt. K. J. Fielder and B. P. Nimro, of Army and Navy; Tom Belshe, Roger Peacock, J. W. Harvey, jr., Leroy Sasscer and Elliott Spicer, of Indian Spring; Byrne Curtis, Henry Phipps, J. F. Baggett and Martin F. McCarthy, of Beaver Dam; Henry Nicholson, of Washington Golf and Country Club; Bill Dieste of Argyle, and Howard Nordlinger, of Woodmont.

Hitchcock's Poloists Defeated in Upset, 6-5

Port Washington, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Tommy Hitchcock's Sands Point quartet was eliminated today from the national open polo championship by the Eastcott four, which tallied a surprising 6-to-5 victory in one of the hardest-fought matches of the season. Harold Talbott, jr., No. 1 for Eastcott, scored four of his team's goals, including the deciding tally in the seventh period.

Dead Heat for Place In French Stake Race

Chantilly, France, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Jean Prat's Murcie, a 4-year-old, won the featured Prix de Chantilly at 3,100 meters today and earned the major share of a purse of 50,000 francs (about $2,000).

Marigny and Blitzalla ran a dead heat for second place, 2½ lengths behind the leader. Le Firmament was fourth. Murcie paid 3 to 1 in the betting.

Galveston Park Struck In Hurricane Disaster

Galveston, Tex. (A.P.).—Moody Stadium, home park of the Galveston club of the Texas League, was severely hit by the recent hurricane which took nearly two score lives along the gulf coast, but not irreparably damaged.

The entire fence around the outfield was blown down and half of the grandstand wrecked. Work of rebuilding the fence was started at once.

FOOTBALL SHOES HIS HOBBY.

Columbia, S. C. (A.P.).—Earl Clary, South Carolina's wing-footed halfback, has one hobby—football shoes. It takes a pair of shoes a week for Clary, Coach Billy Laval lamented. They are too stiff, too short, too soft or too something or other, the coach added.

TULANE TO REBUILD LINE.

New Orleans (A.P.).—When Tulane's Green Wave rolls over the gridiron this fall, the front line will probably include only two regulars from last year's famous forward wall—Lodrigues, center, and John "Baby Grand" Scafide, guard. Four first-string men at the ends and tackles will not return.

NADBATH CLIMBING.

Rudolph Nadbath, of Cleveland, is climbing up in pugilistic circles—last year he returned with the feather-weight championship of Camp Knox, this year with the lightweight title.

SANDLOT DUST

Dixie Polish Juniors have ended their season and will meet at the manager's home, 1121 B street northeast, Friday night to plan for a banquet.

Dor-A won an easy 13-2 victory over Branchville yesterday. Ball's hurling and Keegin's slugging featured the game.

Woodmen of the World and Riggs A. C. will play today at Indian Springs at 1 o'clock.

The Phoenix A. C. will play the strong Anacostia Eagles today at 3 o'clock on the diamond at Shady Oak.

The Ballston A. C. will hook up with the Rock Creek Servicenter nine in a double-header today at Ballston, first game starting at 1:30 o'clock.

All members of the George Washington Post team are requested to bring their uniforms to a meeting to be held tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock at 1441 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE story of lumbermen shaving with their axes has come to be regarded in recent years as a myth, like many tales of the lumber camp. It remained for Paul Chriss, a former logger, to uphold the truth of the primitive shave by demonstrating on a subject with a three-day beard. Mr. Chriss stropped his ax on his boots and, strange as it seems, his "customer" said it was the best shave he ever had. He may have noted that Chriss still held the ax.

RESPITE FROM HEAT PROMISED FOR CITY

Torrid Wave Declared to Be Definitely Broken by Heavy Rain.

A respite from record heat that held Washington in its grip for nearly a week was promised by the weather man following yesterday's heavy rain.

It may become a little warm this afternoon, but by nightfall, the Weather Bureau declared, cooling breezes will bring relief.

The temperature dropped 15 degrees in less than two hours yesterday afternoon. Before the rain began, shortly after 2 o'clock, a temperature of 90 degrees was recorded. By 4 o'clock it had dropped to 75 degrees.

A rise of only 1 degree was noted last night. At 10 o'clock it had reached 76. Although the temperature showed a continued drop from 2 o'clock, an abnormal percentage of humidity was registered. This was due to the rain, it was pointed out.

The Weather Bureau reported .51 of an inch of rain fell during the afternoon.

The kiosk at Pennsylvania avenue and E street northwest differed slightly from the official recording. The highest temperature registered was 92 degrees at 2 o'clock.

The forecast for today is generally fair and cooler tonight. Tomorrow will also be fair.

Dog Which Bit Woman Dies; Autopsy Is Set

Mrs. Grace Fletcher, of 519 Tuckerman street northwest, was bitten on the lower lip by a pet dog last Thursday. The dog died last night and its body was sent to the District Morgue, where efforts will be made to determine whether or not it had rabies.

Although Mrs. Fletcher's condition was not reported to be serious, physicians recommended an autopsy be performed on the dog and the nature of its disease learned. The dog was owned by Mark Bohannon, a next-door neighbor of Mrs. Fletcher.

Purse Containing $5 Snatched From Woman

Vivian Yaton, of 1419 Chapin street northwest, reported to police that a colored man snatched her pocketbook, containing $5 and personal effects from her as she was entering her apartment yesterday.

The pocketbook was found empty in the corridor of the premises.

Under the direction of Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, the meeting will be the sixth session sponsored by the club.

Reporter Sees Life in Dog Pound at First Hand on Visit to 'Canine Prison' Here

Valuable Breeds Often Are Sold for $2 Fee to Pet Lovers.

Sixty dogs of all sizes, breeds, descriptions and nondescriptions, of varying lung capacities and tones, gave a Post reporter a vociferous reception yesterday afternoon when he visited the District Pound.

Some of the three score-odd pups will be gone to a canine after-life today, some will have proud new possessors and be installed in kindly households, while others will be still yelping the blues in their not uncomfortable kennels at the District institution.

Conducted through the pound institution by Acting Poundmaster J. I. LaSalle, a first hand observation was had by this reporter of the manner in which the District government handles the city's stray dogs.

"We always have under our care here at least 60 to 70 dogs," said LaSalle. "Yesterday we took in 23 from various sources, and got rid of 23. Fifteen of these we were forced to kill and eight we were able to sell."

LaSalle showed the reporter the lethal chamber in which the lives of the dogs that civilization doesn't want are snuffed out.

It is a squat chamber built on the paving of a courtyard at the pound. Charcoal gas is piped into it from a large brazier about 100 feet away.

"The dogs go easily and painlessly into unconsciousness under this charcoal gas," said LaSalle. "It is our belief that they experience no discomfort at all and pass quickly from the senseless state to death."

Every effort is made to dispose of the dogs to persons seeking canine companions, before they are executed, said LaSalle. Only the diseased dogs and those so palpably of a nondesirable type are arbitrarily put to death after the 48 hours provided by the law for them to be held at the pound.

Unwanted Inmates Are Killed Painlessly With Gas.

LaSalle explained that the pound fee is $2 and that any person finding a dog he desires at the pound may have him by handing over the fee plus an additional $2 for which a license tag is issued.

Dogs without muzzles, running loose, with tags, from May to October are picked up by those oft-ridiculed personages of boyhood days, "the dog-catchers." Strays, without tags, comprise the balance of the inmates of the institution.

Many owners appear promptly and somewhat indignantly to claim their dogs that have been picked up, it was said. All must pay the pound fee. Often very valuable dogs appear in the kennels and these are quickly paid for by dog lovers.

PENSIONS FOR AGED URGED BY PREACHER

Rev. R. J. Clinchy Says That Workers Also Need Wage Security in Illness.

Old-age pensions, widows' pensions and annuities are now as necessary in a scheme of adequate living as is a yearly salary, according to the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, minister of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, who preached yesterday at the Universalist National Memorial Church.

Mr. Clinchy spoke on "The Master's Use of Work," and members of the Congregational, Universalist and All Souls' Unitarian Churches cooperated in the service.

"Coupled with the securities for old age, there arise also the problems of security through sickness or accident, and for maternity care," said the Rev. Mr. Clinchy. "These are not attempts to make the state, or business, assume responsibilities which the individual should assume. They are as normal a part of the obligation upon business as is the payment of a wage."

"Jesus was never so much interested in charity which depended upon temporary emotion or sentiment as He was in the realization of a just and wise and equitable order of society based on intelligence and mercy and sacrificial living. The truly Christian spirit recognizes that the reasonable profits which are to be expected from man's toil are for man, and not for profits, and therefore that all of our intelligence and our love need to be devoted to the task of granting security to life.

"The blessing of work is that it provides constant actvity. The Master made that the first use of work. It is really the answer to what life is for. Our first thought might be that what we want most is to be happy, but only extreme youth thinks that. We need something to do, and happiness is always, and only, a by-product of activity.

"Religion teaches that it is through the medium of work that we may find the truest road to our destiny. It is only work that grants significance and meaning to life. Work is that substance of which the eternities are made."

Train Severs Conductor's Foot in Depot

A conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad suffered the loss of his left foot last night, when he fell beneath the wheels of an incoming Washington-Baltimore local at Union Station.

Lawrence Keene, 65 years old of 508 D street northeast, was walking along the platform some distance out in the yards. He suddenly slipped and fell onto the tracks. Apparently failing to observe an incoming train, Keene was unable to reach safety before being struck.

His left foot was crushed beneath one of the coaches. At Emergency Hospital, where Keene was taken, it was said his condition was undetermined.

CROWDS SEE MARINE UNIT MARCH IN RAIN

Sixth Brigade, Back From Camp, Parades on Grounds of Monument.

Though a drenching rain swept across the Monument grounds late yesterday, it failed to stop the Marines. The Sixth Marine Reserve Brigade, back from summer camp at Virginia Beach, put on its scheduled parade before a good crowd of spectators, who braved the weather to wish the boys "welcome home."

The results of the two-week period of intensive training were plainly in evidence. With military precision, the various units marched across the Ellipse and onto the Monument grounds.

Two weeks ago the brigade left Washington, its ranks filled mainly with green troops and eager young men. They returned yesterday a hardened and tanned outfit.

Those who missed the parade yesterday will be able to watch the boys in action today, when the entire brigade marches in the Labor Day parade.

A dinner dance, attended by Brig. Gen. George Richards, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan and Col. J. J. Meade, was given last night at the Cavalier Hotel.

CRASH HURTS FATAL TO R. D. HOWELL, 63

Rock Creek Cemetery Superintendent Expires at Beacon, N. Y.

Robert D. Howell, 63, superintendent of Rock Creek Cemetery, died yesterday at the Highland Hospital in Beacon, N. Y., from injuries which he suffered about a week ago when his automobile ran off the road and crashed into a tree, as he was motoring from New York City, where he attended a convention of superintendents of cemeteries, to Canada.

His wife, Mrs. Gertrude E. Howell, was seriously injured in the collision and is now at the Highland Hospital, where she is being treated for a fractured skull, a dislocated hip and shock. Mr. Howell had planned the trip to Canada to consult a physician there about a lingering case of arthritistis from which he was suffering.

Mr. Howell, who lived at 3900 Fourth street northwest, was a Mason and a member of the Order of Elks. He was active in church and social circles.

He is survived by his wife and a son, Charles F. Howell, who brought his father's body here last night for burial. Funeral services will be held at St. Paul's Church at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Four District Youths Robbed In Canada of Cash and Car

To fulfill their lifelong ambition, four Washingtonians left here Friday to motor to Niagara Falls, only to be victimized on arrival there by three armed thugs.

Asleep in their automobile on the outskirts of Victoria Park, near the falls, the quartet, who had planned their trip to take advantage of the Labor Day vacation, awoke early yesterday to face the threatening revolvers of three bandits, according to an Associated Press dispatch. They were robbed of $80 in cash, their clothing and automobile. The party included Henry Beall, 20, of 619 Eighth street southwest; Miss Frances King, 18, of 724 Eighth street northeast; Harry Garner, 20, of 4451/2 Tennessee avenue northeast and his sister, Miss Mabel Garner. They reported to police that the three armed men forced them into the rumble seat of the car and covered them with blankets. They were then driven to the suburbs of a small town on the Canadian side, where they were left on a country road, they said.

Canadian authorities sent a lookout for the assailants. A man said to resemble one of the holdup men was arrested and is being held for questioning.

Beall, who was driving the car on the pleasure tour is an apprentice at the Government Printing Office.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AT THE moment there seems to be in process of evolution some such screen renown as marked the careers of, say, Louise Fazenda, Phyllis Haver or Marie Prevost, if not the more lustrious achievements of Gloria Swanson or Bebe Daniels.

All of these distinguished actresses—and, of course, many more—you will remember, received their initial impetus in the general direction of fame and fortune on the comparatively modest comedy lots of Hollywood.

The Misses Swanson, Fazenda, Haver and Prevost first attracted notice as particularly pulchritudinous recruits in Mack Sennett's organization of "bathing beauties"—a group which probably in the final count-up will compile a more numerous membership than that prodigious army of Ziegfeld "Follies girls," or even the "Flododora" sextet, although by now the sextet that made the "Oh, Tell Me, Pretty Maiden" number famous must be 'way up in the millions!

That, however, is all beside the point that the blonde, dimpled and entirely lovely Miss Thelma Todd seems at last to be coming along.

Born in Lawrence, Mass., Miss Todd began her professional activities as a school teacher, but in time wandered West, and was graduated from the Paramount School of Acting, which gave a practical outlet for the talents of its honor pupils in a production called "Fascinating Youth," in which Miss Todd was apparent, although not preeminent. For a long time after that her official status was to all intents and purposes that of "atmospheric beauty" in productions emanating from the Paramount, First National, Columbia and other prolific plants.

It was then Hal Roach's happy thought to team the youthful and ebullient Miss Todd with the acutely pessimistic and utterly discouraged Miss ZaSu Pitts—the happiest thought that has hit a comedy producer since a time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Others have recently perceived the soundness of Mr. Roach's excellent judgment.

As you will, of course, recall, Thelma Todd was one of the more disturbing influences in the life of Master Buster Keaton in "Speak Easily," hardly out of sight, and currently is on view as chief object of the impetuous infatuations of the Four Marx Brothers—yes, all four of them—in "Horse Feathers," the jocosity packing them to the rafters at the rehabilitated Metropolitan.

These, to be sure, are not the most enormous assignments that have come out of Hollywood these past few months, but they at least recognize others of Miss Todd's considerable endowments than the mere contour in which her features and figure are molded.

THELMA TODD.

And another thing, Thelma Todd's career, so far, makes clear that even on the West Coast there is still efficacy in hard work and not all successful beauties are overnight Cinderellas—a discovery that is positively shocking, no less!

Speaking of the Marx boys in "Horse Feathers," students of the "Film Time Tables," appearing elsewhere on this page, will observe that the daily schedule of performances has been altered to accommodate seven projections of the feature, instead of the customary six. That will give some rough idea of the crowds that have been trying to get in!

Lou Brown, former director of advertising and publicity at the Fox Theater in this city, is Labor-Day weekending with his parents here as a brief respite from exploiting M-G-M's "Strange Interlude," with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable, in upper New York State. The film version of the first of the Eugene O'Neill dramatic endurance contests is an imminent "road show" attraction in the Capital, although no playing date has as yet been set.

If it is incoming attractions you are worried about, though, you might mull these over in your mind: Beginning Friday at Loew's Fox Abe Lyman and his 25-piece band, and Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, in a comedy sketch, will divide headline honors on the vaudeville program. A week later, or beginning September 16, Edmund Lowe, among the handsomest of the heart-palpitators and husband of the gay and charming Lilyan Tashman, will share headline billing with another "name" act yet to be announced. The week after that, September 23, Jack Denny's Orchestra and Borrah Minnevich and his Harmonica Band will be the box-office bait.

Personal aside: Many thanks, Joey Bagstock, whoever and wherever you are.

Seventeen years ago, George "Honey Boy" Evans, owner, producer and head man of the "Honey Boy Evans Minstrels"—which he had purchased lock, stock and barrel from George M. Cohan and Sam H. Harris, when it was known as the "Cohan and Harris Minstrels," and had James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, as interlocutor—died and his company, left without a leader, disbanded.

The members of the famous troupe scattered. Some joined other blackface shows—Al G. Fields, Lew Dockstader's, Neil O'Brien's, or what have you? Not until seven years ago did any of the "Honey Boys" get together again. Then five of them, three out of work, organized the "Original Honey Boys" vaudeville act, currently on view at the Earle.

This quintet is composed of Tommy Hyde, Irving Karo, Nate Talbot, Bill Crawley and Dan Marshall, and they are worth seeing for something more than old times' sake!

It was in the old "Cohan & Harris Minstrels" once, when "Honey Boy" Evans was suddenly stricken with appendicitis, by the way, that Raymond Hitchcock, fallen on evil days, was substituted at one of the ends under a heavy layer of burnt cork—an assignment welcome at the time, but admittedly, by Mr. Cohan, Mr. Harris and Mr. Hitchcock, entirely out of his line. As a burnt cork artist the late lamented "Hitchy" was so bad that he was almost as funny as the "Honey Boy" himself! Boy, was he lousy! as that eminent tragedian, Mr. Herb Williams, would say.

LABOR EXPERT CITES MORAL IN ADVERSITY

Spencer Miller, Jr., Pleads for Social Adjustment in Cathedral Talk.

Adversity can not be isolated in the modern world, in the opinion of Spencer Miller, jr., labor authority, who spoke yesterday at the National Labor Sunday Service of Washington Cathedral.

"The great crisis," declared Mr. Miller, "has made it clear that when one suffers all are bound to suffer. It also has made clear that there is a great peril to any people to achieve economic interdependence before they have achieved social intelligence."

Hundreds of pilgrims and representatives from labor organizations heard the message. The service was read by the Rev. Raymond L. Wolven, canon of the Cathedral and chaplain to the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington. Patriotic hymns and other special music was sung by the Cathedral choir of men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster.

Lessons to Be Learned.

"As we emerge from the more dolorous days of the depression," continued Mr. Miller, "into an era of slow but certain reconstruction, what lessons can we learn from this period of prolonged adversity that will aid us in building better than before? It is clearly not enough to sit back and wait for a return of the old days of the late twenties. They will never return. Nor is it sufficient to accept the gospel of let well enough alone. These are clearly not the lessons of our common distress.

"It is apparent we have all suffered the economic and social consequences of an economic system which functions without plan or moral sanction. It is a system that lacks both external order and inner cohesion.

"Then, too, we now know that it is both idle and futile to ask the victims of economic distress to bear the full burdens of such a period unaided by community sympathy or by governmental support. Private philanthropy has proved not only inadequate to the task of ministering to human distress, but the depression has diverted funds for needed character-building agencies to the immediate task of feeding the hungry. That is a task that society dare not neglect at the peril of its own safety.

Also Spiritually Hungry.

"But there is another peril which we are coming to recognize as equally fatal to the permanent health of any society and that is feeding those who are spiritually hungry. The hunger for the Word of God has as great a claim for our consideration as the hunger for bread."

"The era of reconstruction," concluded Mr. Miller, "must be characterized by the spirit of cooperation—cooperation for the common good rather than competition for the self-ish interest of a few."

A quantity of poison he is said to have swallowed at his home, 1408 Chapin street northwest, yesterday, may prove fatal to Raymond Cook, 25 years old. He is in undetermined condition in Gallinger Hospital.

Police said Cook declared he was "despondent and sick of life in general." He was given first aid treatment by the fire rescue squad.
